Cotton Soars as Roosevelt Offers To Peg Price

SENATE APPROVES BILL TO SATISFY CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Resolution Making Control Legislation First Business of Next Session, Pre-Condition of Loans, Is Sent to House.

SUGAR REGULATION VOTED BY SENATE

Revised Housing Measure Okayed by House Body, But Wage-Hour Program Appears Doomed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP) President Roosevelt today agreed to peg the price of cotton at 12 cents a pound if the house and senate would approve resolutions making crop control legislation the first order of business at the next sesion.

The senate late today passed and sent to the house the desired resolution.

The New Orleans and New York cotton markets registered substantial gains today on overnight news revealing bright prospects for loans. New Orleans closed about $1.50 a bale higher, New York from $1.25 to $1.50 up.

Thwart White House.

Some other parts of the White House legislative program made progress in congress, but on two major issues—sugar control and wage-hour standards—legislators continued to thwart the administration's desires.

Despite Mr. Roosevelt's strong dislike for a provision "freezing" sugar refining at about its present level, the senate passed a sugar control bill containing the clause.

Wage and hour legislation was stuck faster than ever in the hostile house rules committee, and there was an increasing belief that it would be shelved until next session.

However, the house banking committee approved a modified low-cost housing bill, and the same chamber's ways and means committee formally indorsed a measure to seal loopholes in the revenue laws. Moreover, the house passed along to the senate legislation permitting the President to revamp executive agencies and set up a new department of public welfare.

In the foreign field, the administration found it wise to conduct a strategic retreat. Secretary Hull announced that his proposal to lease six aged destroyers to Brazil would be "held in abeyance" until Argentina can study it from all angles.

Visit White House.

Senate action on the crop resolution came not long after delegation visited the White House and reported that President Roosevelt had agreed to make immediate loans on cotton to farmers who pledged compliance with a surplus control program to be enacted next session.

Whether this session would be

Mrs. J. C. Horne, 45, of 698 Durant place, N. E., died last night at a local hospital from burns received when trapped in an overturned, flaming car near Duluth on the Atlanta-Buford highway.

She was pulled from the burning wreckage by her husband and at first it was thought she would recover. Her husband and another passenger, B. B. Crane, 74, of Atlanta R. F. D. No. 3, were admitted to Emory hospital for treatment for burns.

Accused and Accuser in Poole-Dawes Battle

Constitution Staff Photos—Roton.

Charges of conduct unbecoming an officer lodged against Motorcycle Patrolman A. Douglas Poole, left, were aired by the police committee last night after E. C. Dawes, right, nephew of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, had complained to Chief Hornsby the officer manhandled him when he (Dawes) sought to testify in behalf of a truck driver whom Poole was arresting. They are pictured at the hearing.

Poole 'Guilty,' Suspended On Complaint of Dawes

Policeman Dropped For 29 Days After Hearing Before Committee.

Motorcycle Patrolman A. Douglas Poole last night was found guilty on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and suspended for 29 days. The verdict of the police committee was unanimous.

The charges were preferred after E. Cutler Dawes, of 220 Nachoochee drive, nephew of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, complained to Chief Hornsby that he had been manhandled and roughly treated by the officer when he had sought to volunteer his services as a witness for J. M. Byers, of Cumming, Ga., a truck driver whom Poole was giving a ticket for running over a red light.

The charges were formally made by Hornsby after a personal investigation.

The committee commented they thought both men lost their heads.

Committeemen Present.

Committeemen present last night were Alderman G. Dan Bridges, Mayor Hartsfield, Councilman Cecil Hester and John T. Marler. Councilman C. M. Bolen was absent.

Poole told the committee Dawes attempted to prevent the truck driver from giving his name when the officer gave him a ticket. He said he told Dawes "to go on and mind his own business," but he persisted, telling the truck driver to go on down to police headquarters and "I'll come testify for you."

Wouldn't Give Name.

Asking the interferer's name, Poole said the man would not tell him, but continued to interfere with his making the arrest. Poole then testified he told the man to remain where he was, that he was under arrest for interfering with an officer. He asked again for the interferer's name but received no answer.

Poole told the committee Louis

BARON RUNCIMAN DIES IN ENGLAND

British Shipping Pioneer Leaves Colorful, Momentous Career Behind.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Baron Runciman, who properly began a distinguished career of following the sea by running away from home 78 years ago to become a cabin boy, died today at the age of 90, the "grand old man" of British shipping.

He was father of Walter Runciman, who was made a viscount several weeks ago on retirement after serving in several conservative cabinets.

Voyage to South Seas.

Baron Runciman's first ship took him on a voyage to the south seas. After that he followed the sea as sailor and ship's officer for a quarter century, getting his mate's certificate at 20 and his first command at 24. "The university of sailing ships" gave him most of his early education.

He founded his first shipping line nearly 65 years ago, and his interests expanded until they included some of the finest ships afloat. He was the foremost figure in British shipping, head of Walter Runciman & Company, chairman of the Anchor line and director of many steamship companies.

Firm Against Superliners.

He was firm against superliners and rivalry for "blue ribands." Speaking of the decision to build a sistership for the Queen Mary, he said:

"We have the Queen Mary and

BLACK OPPONENTS REPUTEDLY STUDY RAISING KKK ISSUE

Senator Reveals Reports Alabaman Was Supported by Klan Are Being Investigated; 'Washing Our Hands,' Others Say.

SELECTION OKAYED BY SUBCOMMITTEE

Roosevelt Denies He Will Press for Amendment To Reform Judiciary; Viewed as Aid to Solon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Word spread about the capitol tonight that the Ku Klux Klan issue might be raised by some senators fighting the appointment of their colleague, Hugo L. Black, of Alabama, to the supreme court.

One of Black's senatorial opponents, who refused to be quoted by name, said he understood a study was being made of reports that the Alabaman had once been supported for office by the Klan.

This senator said that if anything of a documentary nature could be found it would be submitted to the judiciary committee which must pass upon the nomination.

"Washing Our Hands."

Some other members of the small senate group openly opposing Black declared, however, that they were "washing our hands" of any such tactics. They added their objections were on legal grounds only.

Black, who was absent from the senate session today, could not be reached for comment. Friends of the Alabaman, saying they knew nothing of the reports, declined to enter openly in the discussion.

A final showdown on the senate floor, where appointees from membership usually are confirmed without any such struggles as that now going on, appeared unlikely before next week.

Initial Test.

6 FLIERS MISSING IN HOP OVER POLE

Veteran Alaskan Pilots Are Preparing To Search For Overdue Russians.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 13. Veteran pilots of Alaska's far-flung airways prepared tonight to search for six Russian trans-polar fliers, long overdue here from Moscow on the course of a possible airline to America.

The big four-motored transport, piloted by the veteran Sigismund Levanevsky, was variously estimated to be here at 4:12 p. m. (7 p. m. Atlanta time) for refueling before continuing to Oakland, Cal.

Levanevsky, who estimated 30 hours would be required for the 4,000 mile flight here, had not reported his position for more than 20 hours.

United States officials, who declined to be quoted, privately expressed fear for the airmen.

But other observers pointed out that headwinds which buffeted the huge ship might have delayed it many hours on the 4,000-mile flight to a refuelling here before continuing on to an eventual destination at Oakland, Cal., more than 6,600 miles from Moscow via Fairbanks.

Savannah Claims Youngest Grandmother in World

When, on August 8, Mrs. Janos Milnarics, wife of the mayor of Bajosa, Hungary, claimed that she, at 28, was the world's youngest grandmother, she reckoned without Mrs. Georgia Watson, 28, (left), of Savannah, who is younger by several months. A son, John Detrich Klander, was born a week ago to Mrs. Watson's daughter, Mrs. Lewis Klander (right), who was married at 14 and is now 15 years old. Mrs. Watson herself was married at 12 and had three children before she was 18.

POISON DEATH LAID TO PRETTY GERMAN

Ex-Teacher, Smiling, Is Confident She Will Beat Pending Murder Case.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Comely Mrs. Anna Hahn, 31-year-old former German school teacher, greeted the filing of a murder charge against her tonight with the smiling comment: "This is one case I'm going to win, I'll tell you that!"

The charge, the first definite one filed in the investigation of five deaths and several illnesses, was sworn out by Detective Lieutenant George W. Schattle shortly before Mrs. Hahn's attorney unsuccessfully sought in common pleas court a writ of habeas corpus.

Poison Found.

It was based on a report of City Chemist Behrer that "positive traces of metallic poison" and a trace of an oil poison had been found in the Gsellman vital organs and viscera.

Prosecutor Outcalt termed the report a "major development" in the baffling case which assumed international interest when Schattle sent pictures and fingerprints of Mrs. Hahn to Washington for forwarding to Munich, Germany, where Mrs. Hahn formerly taught school, and to Vienna, where her first husband, Dr. Max Matscheki, practiced medicine.

Other Developments.

Acting Detective Chief Hayes said other developments were:

Mrs. Hahn admitted buying a bottle of poisonous oil which was turned over to police yesterday by her husband, Philip Hahn, a telegrapher.

She also admitted knowing four

City Survey Pushed Despite Court Writ

Although the county has been enjoined temporarily from paying over its part of $19,000 needed to finance a city-county financial survey, Dr. Thomas H. Reed and a staff of surveyors are going ahead with the survey—designed to eliminate overlapping departments in the two governments.

Dr. Reed, financial authority from New York, said yesterday that the restraining order merely keeps the county commission from putting in the county's third of the cost and does not prohibit going ahead with the survey.

The city and the Chamber of Commerce have already put in $6,333.33 each as their part, he said. Survey of the city and county departments will go along just the same. Sponsors of the plan said that they were confident the county would win its case when the hearing comes up September 3 before Judge Virlyn B. Moore.

3.2-Drinking Driver Is Freed in Crash

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 13.—(AP) — William Leifheit, truck driver who originally contended he could not be convicted of drunken driving because Kansas' 3.2 beer legally is not intoxicating, won acquittal here today.

But Police Judge Murray instructed the six jurors to consider only whether Leifheit was intoxicated when his transport truck was involved in a highway accident.

LUXURY TAX SEEN AS NEW PROPOSAL

Special Committee Expected To Ask This Levy Instead of Sales Plan.

By the Associated Press.

Probability that a special legislative committee will skip the general sales tax and decide on a "luxury" levy of limited scope in its recommendations for tax law changes was revealed here yesterday.

A source close to the committee said also there probably would be recommendations for a new method of taxing public utilities—on their gross receipts rather than on the value of their property.

Another major subject under discussion, he revealed, is the revamping of Georgia's tax collection system by consolidating under one head duties now distributed through several departments.

The committee has been in session here for the past two days

SCHOOLS TO STUDY EVILS OF DRINKING

Temperance, Road Safety Included in Course Required by State Board.

Highway safety and temperance, included under a blanket health course became required study for every Georgia high school student yesterday.

The State Board of Education ordered institution of the course of study which will include first-aid administration, accident prevention in general and temperance as to alcoholic liquors and narcotics.

The Board of Education's action followed closely an order for agricultural courses for boys and home economics training for girls in all grammar schools.

Another feature of the developing system under the state's program of seven-month financial support of public schools calls for every school to display a United States flag, without which no teacher will receive salary.

"The primary object of all education," commented Governor Rivers, chairman of the education board, "is training children for citizenship.

Respect for Flag.

"Training that omits proper instruction in handling and respecting the flag of the nation is not complete."

The health course, embracing its several features, he declared "is one of the most practical things Georgia ever has done to meet ordinary exigencies of every-day life."

Now in the process of selecting textbooks to supply the full needs of every grammar and high school student, the board will supply a text on "safe and sane driving,"

TARGET MISSED, DOCKS DAMAGED IN SUDDEN FIGHT

FIGHTING SPREADS OVER WIDE SECTOR

Foreign Troops Patroling International Border as City's Civic Center Is Menaced by Blaze.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14. (Saturday)—(AP)—Crack, German-trained troops and modern warplans of the Chinese national government swept into the battle for Shanghai today as the international city once again became the arena for contest with Japan.

Great field guns rumbled. Machine guns spat into the darkness of a rainy, wind-swept early morning and continued their fire through the day.

A lone Chinese aviator flew at great height over the fortress-like headquarters of the Japanese military in the Hongkew district to drop three bombs, shortly after noon. None hit their target.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Three Chinese war planes bombed the Japanese flagship Idzumo today at the northern end of Shanghai's famous Bund but apparently missed their mark by the narrowest margin.

The attackers, appearing over the cruiser with lightning suddenness, dived and loosed one bomb each, the explosions reverberating through the city and engulfing the vessel in a wall of smoke.

As the smoke lifted, the Idzumo appeared to be undamaged but the docks near-by were splintered.

Japanese Open Fire.

The Japanese unleashed a hail of anti-aircraft fire as the planes appeared but caused no damage. Machine guns and one-pound guns were pressed into action.

It was the first appearance of Chinese war planes except for a lone plane which flew over the city yesterday, apparently on a reconnaissance mission.

The attack followed the resumption of hostilities early this morning with the roar of field guns and the chatter of machine-gun fire ushering in another day of anxiety for Shanghai.

The thunder of the guns, following sporadic night firing after a midnight lull, awakened the populace as the first streak of dawn lighted the sky.

Fires Extinguished.

At the same time, the city was struck by a gale, accompanied by a driving rain, which sent thousands of Chinese refugees who

Hemingway Has Hair on His Chest! Proves It in Bout With Max Eastman

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The question whether Ernest Hemingway, writer of short, hard words, has hair on his chest appeared to have been settled tonight after the best literary fight since Theodore Dreiser slapped Sinclair Lewis in the face at the Metropolitan Club in 1931.

The current controversy, which was between Hemingway and Max Eastman, white-haired prophet of proletarian literature, reached its climax last Wednesday in the staid offices of Charles Scribner's Sons publishing house, it was learned tonight.

After Hemingway had thrown a book at Eastman, then ripped open his shirt to prove it was adorned with hair, and finally was knocked down by Eastman, and ink bottles and other office accessories were hurled, all the witnesses agreed there was no question about the facts at issue.

Hemingway has hair on his chest.

The dispute, however, started over a more sensitive issue, according to Eastman. He said Hemingway resented an essay he wrote several years ago.

The essay was printed shortly after Hemingway wrote "Death in the Afternoon," and was entitled "Bull in the Afternoon."

"He objected to a paragraph in which I wrote that all people who were sensitive, as artists have to be, are worried for fear we may not be strong enough to meet the world, but that some circumstance seemed to have given Hemingway the feeling he must continually protest his redblooded

Four Women Leap, Saving Baby, As Train Smashes Auto on Track

Four women and a five-months-old baby can look back on Friday 13, 1937, as their luckiest day—they escaped uninjured as their automobile was demolished when struck by the crack Florida-bound "Southland" in downtown Hapeville last night.

The car stalled on the Central of Georgia tracks seconds before the limited, running at high speed, flashed into sight. They reached safety as the sicking thud of the crash resounded throughout the downtown section of the suburban city.

Escaping injury were Mrs. W. D. Crawley, 35, of 90 Lee street, Egan Park, driver of the automobile; Mrs. J. C. Smith, 40, of Lee street, a neighbor, who was sitting on the front seat; Mrs. H. D. Trammell, 18, of 89 Lee street, Egan Park, and her five-months-old son, Wayne, and Miss Lois Smith, 20, daughter of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Crawley said she was blinded by lights of an approaching car as she turned left to cross the railroad tracks. The crossing is on a slight upgrade and the car stalled at the crest of the rise, directly on the tracks.

Leaps With Baby.

From her seat on the back, Mrs. Trammell first saw the train, even before the whistle sounded. She yelled to the others to jump as she leaped to safety with her baby.

Miss Smith, in her hurry to open the other rear door, broke her finger nail. That was the only casualty.

VINCENT T. BAKER, PAL OF TURNER, LINKED TO RAID

Atlanta Police Learn He Was One of Trio That Held Up Grocery.

Vincent T. Baker, chief lieutenant of the Forrest Turner gang and now a fugitive from the Troup county chain gang, was one of three gunmen who held up the H. Burger grocery on North avenue Thursday afternoon, Atlanta detectives said last night.

Identification was established after Rome police reported a man recognized as Baker and two others held up a filling station there and escaped with $42 cash.

Riding in Same Car.

They were riding in the same Ford car stolen from Guy M. Stinger, of 2676 Alston drive, and was used in the grocery holdup in Atlanta. They obtained $12 in silver and an undetermined amount of currency in the daylight holdup here.

The bandits attempted to lure a woman into the car at Ansley Park after the holdup but she outwitted them and escaped, police said.

Escaped From Gang.

Baker and two companions escaped the Troup county gang July 30 after shooting an unarmed guard. The escape was made about two hours before Forrest Turner, the gang leader was transferred from Fulton tower to the Troup gang.

The fugitive, who has made frequent escapes from Georgia gangs, was captured the last time in Rome in the company of Mrs. LeRoy Manders, sister of the Turner brothers.

AUTHORS IN FIGHT ON HAIR ON CHEST

masculinity," Eastman explained today.

He said he was unaware of any ill-feeling on Hemingway's part until the author stalked into the office of Max Perkins at Scribner's, and after a few preliminaries, suddenly unbuttoned his shirt, tore it open and said:

"Look!"

"He showed me the hair on his chest," Eastman said. "Then he opened my shirt. His face was as red as a tomato."

Impotent?

Eastman said he and Perkins laughed, thinking Hemingway was joking, but the novelist suddenly roared:

"Why did you accuse me of being impotent?"

Eastman said he was "flabbergasted."

"I never accused him of such a thing," he said.

However, Hemingway suddenly grabbed the book in which the essay was written, which happened to be lying on the desk, thumbed through it and found a paragraph which said Hemingway "represented a new school of fictions, the practitioners of which wore false hair on their chests."

He then pointed to the passage which referred to "some circumstance" causing Hemingway to protest his red-blooded masculinity" and shouted:

"What does that mean? What do you mean by 'some circumstance?' What circumstance are you referring to?"

Eastman said he shrugged his shoulders and said he "hadn't any idea."

Slams Book.

"You know damned well what that means," Hemingway assertedly roared, picked up the book and slammed it in Eastman's face.

Eastman said he jumped for the author, grabbed his throat and threw him across the desk.

"There he lay, with me on top of him," Eastman said. "Then he said, 'All right, Max' and patted my shoulder. I let him go."

Eastman said Hemingway, after laughing a bit, suddenly glared, shook his finger at him and said:

"Well, I hit you in the face with your own book. I let you off easy."

Eastman said he stared at Hemingway and finally said:

"Ernest, I think you are a lunatic."

According to Eastman's story, Hemingway "looked infinitely embarrassed, adjusted his collar and tie, and walked out."

Hemingway later said he was deeply sorry for the publicity given the affair.

"I haven't been hit yet," he remarked, and added: "Eastman must have thought I'd already sailed for Europe."

Rivers announced, as well as another on general accident prevention, emphasizing safety in the home.

The American Red Cross will not only co-operate with the state, he said, in furnishing first aid manuals, but will instruct school teachers to direct first-aid classes.

The other phase of the course—temperance—is designed, Rivers explained, "in an effort to promote temperance and abstinence from strong drink and drugs through education."

Textbook Nature.

No high school student, he explained, will be given a diploma unless he passes the health course.

While some schools of the state, notably in the high school classes, provide agricultural and home economics classes, the new work in this field will come in the last year of grammar school.

Dr. M. D. Collins explained the work would be chiefly of a "textbook nature," and that laboratories would not be essential.

"For years," he declared, "we have been training children away from the farms.

"This course is designed to train them back to the farm, to teach them to appreciate home and farm life and to become acquainted with the problems of home and farm life. In this way, they will help better conditions, not run away from them."

The three new requirements taken together, he declared, are "to enrich the field of study."

As the echoes of the big guns rolled over the city of 3,500,000, Shanghai seemed destined to have an even more anxious day than yesterday when, for the second time in less than six years, the Japanese navy and the Chinese army turned Shanghai's northern and western environs into a battleground.

SHANGHAI SET ON FIRE BY JAPANESE SOLDIERS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Flames against the night sky over twice-stricken Chapei and far down the Whangpoo river reminded this frightened city of 3,500,000 today it had entered upon a repetition of its tragic Chinese-Japanese War of 1932.

For the second time in less than six years the Japanese navy and the Chinese army had turned Shanghai's northern and western environs into a battleground.

They spent Friday in artillery duelling along the Whangpoo, the city's outlet to the sea, and along the northern fringes of Hongkew, that part of the international settlement which Japan dominates.

U. S. Warships Speeding.

United States and British warships were speeding toward Shanghai to take part in defense of Shanghai's foreign communities, including 4,000 Americans and 8,000 Britishers, and the great wealth accumulated here under foreign protection. American marines, 1,050 strong, and British infantry patrolled the borders of the international settlement.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, aboard his flagship, the heavy cruiser Augusta, and Vice Admiral Sir Charles Little, commanding Britain's China squadron, on his flagship, the cruiser Cumberland, were en route to Shanghai.

Both were steaming from Tsingtao, where they had been summering. Other units of the American Asiatic fleet were following, many assigned to points along the China coast.

Chinese Forces Increasing.

In the Shanghai battlefield it was some 7,000 Japanese bluejackets, backed by at least 21 warships stretched along the Whangpoo, against steadily increasing numbers of Chinese soldiers belonging to the regular forces of the central government. Foreign authorities estimated the Chinese numbers at 30,000.

Many of these belonged to the 87th and 88th divisions of the central army, well-armed, German-trained units.

With battle joined at Shanghai the undeclared war between Japan and China, begun July 7 with a minor skirmish west of Peiping, entered a new and more ominous phase. The conflict continued in the north, especially Nankow Pass northwest of Peiping, where the Japanese tried to blast a way through the mountains to the uplands of Chahar, and south of Tientsin.

But Shanghai, unique international community where interests of many nations are concentrated, took the center of the stage.

Conflict had actually impended here since last Monday night, when, in a clash at Hungjao airdrome near here two Japanese naval men and a Chinese gendarme were killed. Both sides brought in reinforcements.

Each Blames Other.

Fighting actually began Friday morning with rifle exchanges along the Hongkew-Chapei border; each side said the other fired first.

It developed into a crescendo of artillery exchanges, with Japanese naval vessels blazing away at the shore, with the fine new Jukong wharves of the greater Shanghai municipality as their principal target.

These wharves, recently finished at a cost of 1,500,000, about half way between Shanghai and the mouth of the Whangpoo, were blasted and burning. Two huge fires were blazing at midnight in that vicinity.

Casualties thus far were believed light. Officers of both sides said they knew of none, but Japanese reporters said they had seen two of their bluejackets wounded by shell splinters.

COUNTY OFFICIALS AGAIN RESTRAINED BY COURT'S WRIT

Temporary Order Issued in Right-of-Way Dispute Along New Highway.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday were under another temporary restraining order—this time in connection with the acquirement of right-of-way property along the new Atlanta-Marietta highway.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore signed an order directing the county commissioners to appear August 20 to show cause why they should not be permanently enjoined from continuing to acquire property for right-of-way by condemnation proceedings from the estate of L. D. Rolader, located on the new highway, restraining them temporarily meanwhile.

Petitioners filing the suit for injunction were C. B. and Ivan Rolader. They declared that the county commission is proceeding illegally to acquire their property for use as a part of the highway right-of-way.

County commissioners have made no efforts to purchase the property, the petition alleges, but are seeking ownership of the petitioners' property without any legal authorization.

"State Aid Road."

The petition sets out that the new road is a "state aid road" and is a part of the state system. Under the Georgia code, the State Highway Department is authorized to condemn a right-of-way for maintenance and upkeep of the road "not to exceed 100 feet in width." Petitioners allege that at the point involved, the right-of-way is up to the maximum width allowed by law.

They show that the State Highway Department sought additional right-of-way fronting their property on July 15. When the law was cited, it was alleged, the board dismissed the attempted condemnation proceedings.

On the other hand, the county commission is now seeking to condemn the property under a Georgia law which empowers county commissioners to condemn "for public roads a right-of-way not in excess of 200 feet in width," the petition charges.

Termed Illegal, Void.

This is illegal and void, petitioners point out, because the road is not a "public," or county road, but is a state highway and part of the state system and under the law cannot exceed 100 feet.

The commission is seeking to condemn property, not for creating a separate and distinct roadway, the petition alleges, but for "express purpose of conveying title" to the state, while the code statute permits the county to condemn righ-of-ways only for county roads.

Petitioners further charge that the property sought is not actually needed for the highway. The right-of-way fronting their property, they allege, is 100 feet wide, and as a 44-foot highway is contemplated, more than 20 feet on each side will be left for grading and sloping down.

Hamilton Lokey, Atlanta attorney, filed the suit, service of which will be acknowledged by County Attorney Harold Sheats, as counsel for the commission.

FATHER KILLS 2 GIRLS, SHOOTS ONE, ENDS LIFE

ISLAND PARK, N. Y., Aug. 13. (AP)—An hour after buying ice cream for his family tonight a 31-year-old gardener shot and killed two of his small daughters, seriously wounded a third, and then killed himself, Inspector Harold R. King, of the Nassau county police said.

He added he was unable to learn a reason for the shootings by the gardener, Mattei Hordachewski who, King added, cut his throat with a razor after shooting his daughters with a .22-calibre rifle. The dead were Hordachewski, Mina, 3, and Sona, 11 weeks. Jane, 5, was seriously wounded through the shoulder.

TEACHER'S DISMISSAL CONFIRMED BY BOARD

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 13. (AP)—The five-man school board of nearby Whitely township confirmed tonight its dismissal of Mrs. Laura Elms Morris, teacher in the little, one-room Kirby school, charging her with cruelty and "advising" her pupils that "the human race originated from monkeys."

J. Earnest Isherwood, the middle-aged country "school marm's" attorney, previously had announced that he had expected the verdict and that he would appeal immediately to the Greene county court under the state's new teacher tenure law.

Women's Activities Feature Farm and Home Week

Women of Georgia's farms took an active part in Farm and Home Week activities in Athens this week, on the campus of the University of Georgia's College of Agriculture. Here Mrs. P. J. Seiger, of Royston, is demonstrating weaving methods to a group of interested spectators. The farm women are being given instruction also in nutrition, family financing, marketing, home industries, clothing the family, and many other approved methods of farm home maintenance.

Micro-Chemical Soil Tests Urged To Reduce Guess-Work in Farming

North Carolina's Cotton Yield Is Cited as Mark at Which Georgia Growers Should Aim; Agronomist Discusses Fertilizer.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 13.—C. N. Wilder, assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Georgia, today said through micro-chemical soil tests guess work in fertilization will be removed and "some of the gamble inherent in agriculture" eliminated.

Wilder, in a farm and home week address here, said the tests are designed to correlate various soil types with different plant nutrients.

". . . from a theoretical standpoint, and a rapidly approaching practical standpoint, every acre of arable land in Georgia can be made to produce bumper crops, and the Georgia farmer only has to ascertain the agricultural value of his soil adjustments to insure profitable production of any crop," he said.

Ends Guess Work.

"Micro-chemical tests eliminate guess work in fertilization and, from a standpoint of economics, they will enable the farmer to produce more at less cost, and will remove some of the gamble inherent in agriculture."

Wilder said "there is no doubt that sooner or later such a service will be available to the agricultural producer."

W. O. Collins, professor of soils at the university, in a technical discussion of the results of micro-chemical tests on Georgia soils, said that on soils of known richness the chemical needs shown by the tests were not a great deal different from the "amount of material recommended by the experiment station."

Carolina's Yield.

Harry Hodgson, president of the Empire State Chemical Company, Athens, cited North Carolina's high per acre cotton yield as a mark at which Georgians should aim.

"If Georgia had had an equal yield per acre with North Carolina last season, it would have increased Georgia's cotton crop 370,000 bales, which, at 12 cents a pound or $60 a bale, would have added $22,200,000 to our farmers' income," he said.

E. D. Alexander, extension service agronomist, discussed use of fertilizers for winter cover crops in the south.

New officers of Georgia's 4-H clubs were presented to the farm and home week visitors today.

Mrs. H. G. Wiley, of Crisp county, was elected president of the State Home Demonstration Council at the final sessions of Farm and Home Week today.

Other officers selected were Mrs. Tory Rucker, Fulton county, first vice president; Mrs. H. H. Durrence, Tattnall county, second vice president; Mrs. J. C. Head, Jackson county, secretary, and Mrs. Bessie Hatcher, Twiggs county, treasurer.

COTTON GAINS $1.50 ON NEW LOAN PLAN

the regular January session or a special fall session was not indicated immediately.

The farm deal, as described by senators who were at the White House today, involved a Presidential decision to grant loan-subsidies on cotton, to peg the price at 12 cents a pound.

For Other Crops.

One of the senators, Bilbo, of Mississippi, expressed the belief the administration would give wheat, corn and hogs similar "consideration" if the markets become as distressed as cotton.

Falling farm prices had led legislators to demand price-bolstering loans, but the administration contended the loans might be worse than useless unless surplus production were controlled by law.

The loans would be immediately available upon executive order from the White House, Senator Schwellenbach, another conferee, said, but subsidy payments would not be made until August of next year.

Bilbo, immediately on returning from the White House, introduced his resolution.

Meantime the President instructed Secretary Wallace to work out a loan schedule. Bilbo told the senate the rate had not been determined but that if it were 10 cents a pound the government would grant a subsidy of two cents a pound. The loan, he said, would not be high enough to prevent export at world prices.

Nine-Cent Loan.

Schwellenbach said the loan might be nine cents, in which case the subsidy would amount to three cents. Farmers would be paid the difference between 12 cents and whatever price they received for their cotton above the loan.

Secretary Wallace, who sat in on the White House conference, said the 1935 program, on which the new plan is to be modelled, cost only about $35,000,000. It provided 10-cent loans and a 2-cent subsidy.

Another Pay-Hour Law.

The pay-hour legislation has been passed by the senate but has been stymied for days in the powerful house rules committee. Members said the committee threw another new obstacle in the bill's path today.

Before approving the usual pre-adjournment resolution to permit suspension of the rules to expedite passage of last-minute legislation, committee members said they won a pledge from Speaker Bankhead that he would not use the measure to bring the battered wage-hour bill to the floor.

The legislation to close tax law loopholes may produce $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 of additional revenue, said Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee.

The legislation is scheduled for house consideration Monday.

The housing bill was pared down from a $726,000,000 to a $526,000,000 basis. Already passed by the senate, the measure was revised drastically by the committee. Bonds were restriced $200,000 to only $500,000,000 bonds.

Up Local Contribution.

The committee decided the government should not lend more than 85 per cent of the development or acquisition cost of any project, with local funds supplying the remaining 15 per cent. The senate had voted for local contribution of 5 per cent. Top cost per unit was placed at $5,000 against the senate limit of $1,000 per room and $4,000 per dwelling unit. It substituted a provision that the cost must be limited to the average in the same locality.

MAN IS FOUND SLAIN; THOUGHT GANG VICTIM

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(Saturday)—(AP)—The body of a man, shot through the head, was found early today in a vacant lot in Brooklyn. Police from the Canarsie station, sent to investigate the slaying, said the man apparently was the victim of a "gang ride."

8 KILLED IN PLANE TEST.

HANOVER, Germany, Aug. 13. (AP)—Eight mechanics and engineers were killed here today when a German three-engined plane crashed and burst into flames while on a test flight from the local airdrome.

Oil and Gas Taxes In 20 Per Cent Gain

Georgia motorists paid a fifth more in federal gasoline and oil taxes during the first six months of this year than for the first half of 1936, Neil W. Printup, Georgia Petroleum Industries Committee secretary, said yesterday.

Federal taxes have totaled $1,548,000 in the last six months, a figure 16,4 per cent above the $1,330,000 collected in the first half of 1936, he said.

Printup cited the figures to show the cost of federal taxes in addition to taxes, fees and levies paid the state. The federal tax bill, he pointed out, is nine-tenths federal receipts from the gasoline tax, duplicating the state levy.

GIRL RIDING ON HOOD BADLY HURT BY AUTO

Straddling the engine hood of the car on which she was riding, Miss Erline McDowell, 19, of 152 Mims street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon near Anniston, Ala., when the radiator ornament to which she was clinging broke and she fell from the car.

She was taken to Grady hospital last night, where she was admitted suffering from a fractured vertabrae. Attaches said that most of her body was paralyzed, and that she was in serious condition.

'BUG' COMPANIES AGAIN OPERATING; BUSINESS LAGGING

'Double Number' Episode Has Crippled Trade, Big Firms Assert.

Major lottery companies resumed operations yesterday fearful the "double number" incident has shaken public confidence and would cost them upwards of $500,000 before their failure to pay off was forgotten.

Some even told friends the Atlanta lottery business would be cut in half for at least two months. The superstitious also fought to overcome their fears. If this prediction be true, lottery operators will lose nearly a million dollars as the daily "bug" play in the city, prior to the "double number" crackup, was $50,000 or more.

"Spiritualist" in Spotlight.

Police denied ridiculing underworld sources which revealed lottery operators had found a Woodward avenue "spiritualist" was giving out the numbers to his patrons.

Police admitted having heard this themselves. They said it was entirely probable and said "it is known the lottery player is one of the most superstitious persons in the world. Some depend on the moon being 'right' before placing a wager."

Two widows of principals in the December lottery killings three doors from police headquarters, who have been "carrying on" their husband's business, were among those placed on the rocks during the past two weeks, underworld sources said last night.

Mrs. Ransom Bankrupt.

Previously, it was revealed the Ransom company, operated by Mrs. Ethel Ransom, had folded up, but it was not until Mrs. V. H. Billingsley failed to resume operations yesterday, when other large companies did, that it was learned she had gone bankrupt.

Both these women's husbands were killed in a gun battle which climaxed an attempt by each to run the other out of business. Billingsley moved into Atlanta from Birmingham shortly before the shooting. Another man was killed and two wounded in the fight.

Loyce York Set To Start 'Flyer' At Films Today

Loyce York, the Atlanta beauty, is going to Hollywood to find out whether she can act.

The Atlanta girl, who became Miss Aviation U. S. A., over a field of contestants at Birmingham six weeks ago, is to leave for New York en route to Hollywood by plane at 9 o'clock this morning.

Miss York refuses to go into rhapsodies over her prospects of crashing the movies. She said yesterday:

"Just because I can fly a plane (she soloed after one day's instruction) and do a few other things is no indication that I can act. Of course, it's nice, but there isn't really much I can say about it."

Miss York won her chance for an interview with Cecil B. DeMille, the director, by learning to fly solo in a day. She says:

"Of course, when they asked me at Birmingham after I was chosen Miss Aviation whether I could learn to fly in a day, I said I'd try.

"I did. I learned to fly in seven hours and 43 minutes. After I had soloed I was told about a trip to California arranged for me."

Miss Aviation, U. S. A., declined to boast of her exploit of learning to fly in a single day (she's the first woman in the United States ever to achieve this distinction), dismissing it as just another accomplishment.

FBI CHIEF COMMENDS STATE FINGERPRINTING

Director John Edgar Hoover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, yesterday commended Governor Rivers for his requirement that applicants for executive clemency be fingerprinted.

"Your action I believe is indeed a step forward in efficient law enforcement," Hoover wrote the Governor.

"This will be a method of eliminating a vast army of second, third and fourth offenders because the fingerprint will reveal their past criminal activities."

The Governor's plan calls for fingerprints of prisoners to be attached to all clemency applications and for copies of the prints to be examined by the federal bureau.

2 FACE U. S. COURT ON DISTILLING CHARGE

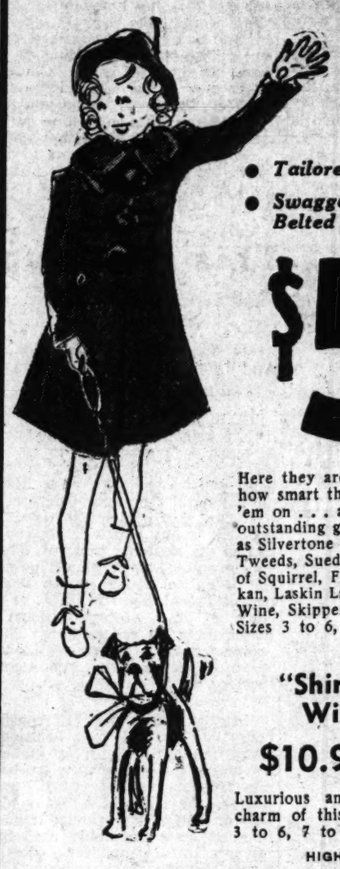

Charged with distilling liquor, Buford Evans, 32, and Howard Dorsey Parks, 20, faced federal grand jury investigation yesterday after a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

Evans and Parks were arrested in Gilmer county after being chased by Alcohol Tax Unit agents. The officers reported they seized a 45-gallon still and 10 gallons of whisky. Bonds were set a $300 each.

"THE RIGHT SORT" OF BOARD

Proponents of the Black-Connery wage and hour bill have, in defending this measure which would delegate control of private industry to a government agency, made frequent use of a qualifying phrase in their arguments which reveals the dangers which would result from the enactment of this measure.

These defenders of the bill almost invariably say it will prove beneficial to the country "if administered by the right sort of board."

They thus expose, perhaps unwittingly, the capstone of objection to the proposal. The time has not yet come in American government when the people will see, without protest, delegation of such far reaching authority to an appointed board. American citizens, with any surviving love of liberty, are not yet willing to place in the hands of any board the arbitrary power to shackle private enterprise with rules and regulations which could be used to discriminate between sections, between industries, between social groups and between individual enterprises.

And who, it may be asked, would determine whether the board to be appointed would be the "right sort." The bill provides that the board of five members shall be appointed by the President. What man can tell whether some group or special interest might not hold the controlling influence in persuading some future chief executive to appoint a board they would consider "the right sort"?

Is it to be a board which would hamstring southern industry, making it powerless for the south to compete with manufacturers of the east? Such a board would undoubtedly be "the right sort," in the opinion of the tariff-protected industrial moguls of New England and the north.

Is it to be a board which would be considered "the right sort" by John L. Lewis and his CIO? Or "the right sort" to please William Green and the AFL?

Is it to be "the right sort" of board to further the political aspirations of one party, Democratic or Republican or Socialist, at the expense of the others?

Regardless of the surface desirability of controlling rates of pay and hours of work for all forms of industrial labor, no measure which places such tremendous powers and authority in the hands of a little group, whether that group be "the right sort" or not, is in accordance with American principles of government.

The late Representative William P. Connery, co-author of the bill, told employers and employes alike of Massachusetts that one purpose was to eliminate "unfair southern competition."

What of the future of industry in the south if the board appointed is "the right sort" to suit the ideas of the manufacturers of the east?

HEROES FOR YOUTH

Albert B. Moore, chief inspector of the New York state police, lists as society's chief problem the delinquent child. At the same time he offers a cure for the evil, stressing that it can be righted by providing the proper type of hero for youth to worship during the formative years.

The cause of this juvenile delinquency, he declares, is largely the wrong forms of amusement, which create in the immature mind the wrong hero type.

Inspector Moore touches upon what is probably the innermost clue to an improved citizenship for the future. From the children of today comes the citizenship of tomorrow and in their training, their development, lies the hope or despair of the coming America.

To instill into young boys and girls a love of the foundations of American liberty, to impress upon them the sanctity of the law and the nobility of good citizenship, is to build for a better tomorrow.

The policeman is, for many children, the symbol of law and authority. Upon the patrolman's contact with the children he meets rests a large part of the responsibility for their attitude in life. Thus once again the importance of careful selection and proper training of the police is emphasized.

The recently inaugurated school for Atlanta police may have more to do with the fate of the city than is dreamed today. They should be taught it is their privilege to set an example to youth that may qualify them as worthy heroes in the hearts of boys and girls.

A brisk demand for accordions is noted by the prospering music trades. Trombones, also, look good for the long pull.

The first American to play a saxophone solo openly has passed on at the ripe age of 72, in bed and unrepentant.

With everybody running on everybody else's ticket in New York, and a mayor who can spellbind in seven languages including the Serbian the voter may have to buy a libretto.

An Egyptian, Hadji Ali, now showing in London, offers to swallow anything. He will be tested shortly with a day's victory claims from Spain.

Biologists believe the future man will be not only bald but deaf. Either way it is a dark prospect, holding little for a barber.

CHEMICALS IN WAR

There will be universal indorsement of the effort by President Roosevelt to discourage the use of chemicals in warfare. He announced that purpose in refusing to sign a bill, passed by congress, changing the name of the present chemical warfare service to the "chemical corps." The change, he said, attached too much dignity to a war activity which is inhumane and which he hopes will some day be outlawed entirely.

There is little that is humane in war as it is practiced today, but undoubtedly, as the President states, the use of gas and chemicals represent the apogee in horror. By their use it will not be long before an invading enemy can wipe out an entire population, while the suffering of the individual, lungs and eyes and body seared by destroying chemicals, surpasses the imagination of a Dante.

It is, of course, extremely doubtful that a combatant, in the desperation of conflict, would refrain from any weapon that held out hope of advantage. But the attitude of the President is hopeful. It is only by such public expressions from men in authority, designed to arouse public resentment, that any hope for ultimate international bars against chemical warfare can be entertained. In fact, only by a similar attitude toward all war can the longed-for millennium of an always peaceful world be attained.

MODESTY IN DRESS

Prediction by Atlanta style authorites that modesty is returning in feminine attire will be received with mingled reactions—from the women who follow fashion's dictates and the men who follow fashion's exponents.

There is, in the reasons advanced for the changing trend, more than a hint of disparagement for female beauty unconcealed. It can scarcely be presumed that the stylists were intentionally derogatory when they said "the one-piece bathing suit is attractive on a very small percentage of women," but the unkind criticism is there, in any event. It is clear these experts do not subscribe to the poetic faith in "the female form divine," in universal application.

It may be possible to speak thus in critical disparagement of the female form collectively, but it is doubtful if there lives a style expert, of either sex, who would dare to apply that conclusion to any individual woman.

The woman who has the courage to admit to herself, in the privacy of a boudoir with full-length mirror, that perhaps she is one of those whose physical attraction is greater the less frankly it is displayed, may take comfort in the truth that beauty, after all, is in the eye of the beholder. It is possible the style leaders quoted have become so surfeited with lovely women that, to their jaundiced eyes, all women are but animated blocks upon which their creations may be draped or hung or plastered. And thankful may that woman be who knows there is, in any event, one faithful, admiring male who, though he be but a humble husband, thinks she is, in every detail, more adorable with each passing year.

According to the challenger himself, Joe Louis' next foe is to be by no means a push-over—or is this just a Farr cry?

British wallpaper of a new type may be fixed to walls without paste. Thus, at long last, relief comes to the one-armed paperhanger, which must make it unanimous.

NAVAL STORES INDUSTRY

(From the Florida Times-Union.)

In a broadcast from the Department of Agriculture recently it was told that in 1584 members of an expedition headed by Sir Walter Raleigh found in North Carolina great areas of pinelands; pine trees which the prospectors declared "would furnish enough tar and pitch to use on great fleets." The discovery of the pine trees in the southern states of North America meant the securing of "naval stores" so greatly used and needed in England, where in that period the source of supply was Russia and the Baltic countries. Tar and pitch was used in caulking the wooden ships of the sixteenth century.

"It was because of the usefulness of these two substances in building and maintaining wooden ships that tar and pitch were called naval stores," said the Agricultural Department expert. "And the name clings to the industry. Today the great American naval stores industry is concerned mainly with turpentine and rosin obtained from the resinous sap of the yellow pine grown in our southern states."

The broadcast told of reference to the possibilities of producing pitch and tar in the new colony by Captain John Smith, in 1607. The first reference to naval stores, however, was remarked as in the Bible, when Noah was said to have been instructed regarding the building of the ark.

"About the beginning of the present century," said the broadcaster, "a young American chemist, Dr. Charles H. Herty, who was attending lectures in Berlin, talked with a professor regarding the naval stores industry in America. He was told that great waste was prevalent; shameful waste. Dr. Herty studied the method of producing rosin and turpentine, and from his efforts they were changed, and brought about reasonable methods of production."

The United States produces more than half of the world's naval stores.

More than half of the total naval stores production of this country is sold abroad. England, Germany and the Netherlands are the largest customers. The paint and varnish industries use about 80 per cent of the turpentine sold in the United States. The next largest use is in the manufacture of shoe polish. Turpentine is used in innumerabue ways, ranging from the production of shatterproof glass to synthetic camphor and insecticides. Rosin is used mainly in the manufacture of soap and varnishes and for sizing paper. To a lesser extent it is used in making greases, printing ink and linoleum.

Pine forests cover more than 150,000,000 acres in the southern states. With proper reforestation and fire protection, the United States Forest Service estimates that this country will continue, indefinitely, to supply the greater part of the world's naval stores requirements.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

THAT CANADIAN TREATY WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—When the senate ratified a treaty with Canada which took up only four inches in the Congressional Record, most of the senators, if they read the text at all, didn't get half the story.

It was written in invisible ink between the lines of the covenant, and the secrets it contains are buried deep in the code messages of the Internal Revenue sleuths.

The treaty was a sort of good-neighbor gesture, a reciprocal agreement reducing, from 10 to 5 per cent, certain income taxes on Canadians in this country, and Americans in Canada. Actually, the agreement brings the United States in line in its treatment of Canadians with that which Canada has for some time been according Americans.

But all this is on the surface. What is not on the surface is a quid pro quo that means many dollars to the United States Treasury and likewise the downfall of American tax dodgers hiding out their income in Canada.

In other words, Canada is helping us stuff a tax loophole that we never could have plugged alone.

It doesn't go into the official records, but Canadian police frequently get aboard an American coast guard cutter which is conveniently around when the Dominion has constabulary duty to be done. American operators likewise have been known to ride on the Canadian police boats, while border patrols do a little reciprocal sleuthing without trading extradition papers.

But never before have Canadian officials gone as far as they are going today in giving aid and comfort to the Treasury sleuths.

Private ledgers, records and accounts have been opened under the Canadian law. These documents may or may not have interested Canadian officials.

But that isn't the point. The evidence is left convenient to members of that American organization which so nimbly plucked Al Capone from the lap of luxury and dropped him in the lap of Alcatraz.

It was as a gesture of gratitude for Canada's co-operation that Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the finance committee, urged his colleagues to approve the income tax pact with our northern neighbor.

HULL WASN'T PLEASED It might be added that the pact was signed by counsellor of the State Department (then assistant secretary) R. Walton Moore, while Secretary Hull was attending the Buenos Aires peace conference in December. The No. 1 treaty-maker never said so officially, but it is whispered that he was none too pleased over his subordinate's achievement.

Perhaps what disturbed Secretary Hull was the fact that the other good neighbors to the south weren't getting an even break. According to the law, the income taxes of aliens in our midst are 10 per cent unless lowered by a treaty with a "contiguous nation." Or, perhaps Secretary Hull felt that Canada, in some other respects, showed too many British references.

THAT PICNIC AGAIN Toward the back of a 33-page document which makes up the rivers and harbors bill is an item overlooked by the public.

This provision calls for preliminary examinations and surveys to be made of the "channel to and near Jefferson Islands, Chesapeake bay, Maryland, with a view to their establishment as an aid to navigation and the establishment of a harbor of refuge."

No official comment has been obtained from the board of directors, of which Senator Key Pittman is chairman, but it has been suggested that, at the recent Jefferson Island party, there may have been difficulty encountered in navigation. But who needs the refuge?

SCANDAL DIES ABORNING There's a scandal among the bleating herds of the southwest, where the Navajos watch their flocks (or let the squaws do it), according to Sheepman Andrew Bates who blew in from points west to talk to the office of Indian affairs this week.

He's just made a visit to the southwest after an absence of 35 years, and he's worried. He's afraid the noble red man hasn't been as particular about the social habits of his woolly possessions as he should. He says that there has been cross-breeding and he's afraid the wool isn't what it used to be. And what, he asks, would we do for Navajo rugs if the famous Navajo sheep started pulling short wool over the weavers' eyes?

At the Indian affairs office, they aren't worried. They have supervised some cross-breeding of the Navajos' famous sheep. But this has been done, according to them, to strengthen and lengthen the wool that goes into those attractive rugs that decorate your summer cottages. It is too early to judge the result yet, they say.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Ladies blonde,
Red-heads, brunette,
I'll love you all
And ne'er regret;
I'll even add,
With inner grin,
I like you fat,
And I like you thin.

Every Rule
May Be Broken.

There is a rule observed almost invariably in newspaper offices. That is, to pay no attention to anonymous communications. It is felt that anyone who dares not sign their name to a letter, doesn't warrant credence. So, we simply toss the unsigned epistles into the wastebasket. If we have been thoughtful enough to look for the signature first, they go to the said w. b. unread.

Of course, signing a communication doesn't necessarily mean the name is going to appear in print. If you want to say something in the columns, without making your identity general public knowledge, sign the letter anyway, as a mark of good faith, but ask the editor not to give you away. He won't. But he will then attach some value to your letter, instead of considering it so much useless trash, which he is sure to do if it is unsigned altogether.

However, there are the rare exceptions to every rule. And one has arrived in the mail, a moment or two ago. It is a letter from an Atlanta woman and if you can read it without a moisture in the eye, you are less susceptible than I. Maybe I'm an old softie, but my eyes were kinda filling when I got through.

Remember about the report, in this column, of the vandals who were marring the city garden in Ansley Park, created by the Iris Garden Club? Well, this unsigned letter refers to that circumstance. So, anonymous or not, here it is:

Sacrilege
More Outrageous.

"Dear Silhouettes—

"Your piece about the Iris club, or rather the Garden club, reminds me of something which, I believe, is far more outrageous.

"There is a spot in Atlanta very dear to the hearts of my husband and me. Last fall, we had worked quite a while (going there before he went to this daily task) which was before sunup.

"This has been our custom ever since we put her there. She was only seven. And this was her birthday.

"We placed her favorite flowers all over the grave. Roses. And went away.

"Later in the day a friend wanted to go out and take her lone offering. As we came in sight of the little grave two women and a little child ran away.

"To my grief, they had taken from the vases all the roses that they wanted and, in doing so, pulled all the others from the water, scattering them over the lot.

"What, may I ask, could be more outrageous?

"I know that you live in Decatur and we don't live so very far this side of Decatur. And the spot that is so dear to us is away across town. We have quite a way to go.

"I just thought if some people could see such things in print, they may have a different idea of destroying things of beauty, 'and treading on sacred ground.'"

There Is Nothing to Add.

There is nothing that can be said to add to that letter, anonymous or not. There is no comment that can be made. Nothing to be done, either.

Except to hope it may touch the hearts, if hearts they have, of the cruel ghouls who would commit such ghastly sacrilege and perpetrate such outrage.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Wednesday, August 14, 1912:

"The old Joe Brown house on Washington street, at Woodward avenue, the residence in which Georgia's wartime Governor lived for a space of about forty-five years, is now being dismantled to make room for the Girls' Commercial high school, to be erected this fall at an approximate cost of $100,000."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Sunday, August 14, 1887:

"Rome, Ga., August 13.—(Special)—The new bridge at the foot of Broad street was completed today, and was thrown open to the public."

Collegiate Football.

On May 27, 1874, the sport which more persons pay to see annually than any other in the United States, was born.

Modern collegiate football had its origin in the spring, which was when the football season used to be!

Harvard's soccer squad had invited McGill (Montreal) University's football team to visit Cambridge for a contest.

"When McGill's representatives arrived and the two captains proceeded to discuss the game, the Harvard captain learned to his astonishment that there were two kinds of football and that the McGills only played Rugby," says the sport historian, Frank Menke.

"The Crimsons confessed ignorance concerning Rugby and the McGills admitted the same relative to soccer. So they compromised. Part of the game would be soccer, part Rugby. In advance the McGills pointed out Rugby pointers to the Harvards and the Harvards gave the McGills pointers in soccer."

The game ended in a scoreless tie, with both teams enthusiastic over the new kind of football they had envolved. On this date they decided to continue it in intercollegiate competition. Both set about inducing other colleges to play other scheduled football games in this new way and this, with some minor changes, is the distinctly American type of football that prevails in North America today.

"Rugby" football was not invented at Rugby. Nor was it played there, or at any other school, for many semesters after William Ellis invented the game in 1823.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Let 'Em All Come.

PARIS.—General von Ludendorff is not being allowed to have things all his own way in the matter of the revived worship of pagan deities; the cult spreads to other regions which can boast one or two local venerables who are every bit as mouldy as Thor or Odin. Thus there is a tale from Belgrade to the effect that someone has discovered a group of Rumanian-speaking peasants, "descended from Roman legionaries," who are still celebrating Bacchic and other mysteries without knowing where their rites come from. It now only remains to announce that they can also spout chunks of Ovid which have been handed down from father to son since the days when the aggrieved Publius Ovidius Naso was in melancholy exile on the shores of the Black Sea. But the peasant-pagans of Yugo-Slavia cannot help themselves; they were just brought up like that.

More in keeping with deliberately achieved revelation according to Ludendorff and company is a short report that somebody called Astiriotes has launched a movement in Greece for the revival of Zeus, Hera, Pallas, Athene, and all the other former residents of Olympus. Presumably Signor Mussolini's relations with the Vatican would not allow of a similar compliment to the good old Roman outfit or deified disrespectables, for otherwise there would surely have been by this time a considerable outbreak of Mars worship on the banks of the Tiber.

Peeps or Pips.

When the Last Trump sounds people will still be arguing about the name Pepys. It is highly probable that the diarist called himself "Peeps," but the Cottenham branch of the family, who have a right to be heard use the "Peppis." Others of the clan declare for "Peps". In the generation after Pepys' death one James Carcasse, a clerk in the Navy Department, to which the treatment of the name should have been thoroughly understood, rhymed "Pepys" with "lips." But English is a volatile language, and if "tay" became "tea" within the past hundred years one cannot dogmatize as to how exactly "lips" was pronounced in the 18th century.

The Campaign
Against Trotsky.

The annals of history do not contain a villification as bitter as that of the Soviet press against Trotsky. I have before me an excerpt from an article in the Istvestia, which surpasses anything I have ever read in the line of invective and I am a regular reader of Daudet's articles against the French republic. Yet as the chief creator of the Red army that defeated the Russian counter-revolution and its "interventionist" allies, Trotsky's name will be found in every serious history of post-war Europe (if it is expunged from Russian histories then these are simply not serious). Besides being a great organizer, Trotsky is also a superb orator and a vivid and powerful writer. Nevertheless he has, even since he left Russia, been the object of a peculiarly virulent and hysterical hatred that has been kept alive by those who control the Soviet Union and the Comintern—that is to say, by those who had it not been for Trotsky, would have been nothing today. Although Trotsky's achievement was one of the greatest of the revolution, the word "Trotskyism" has become one of the most abusive epithets in the Russian language (far more so than the word "capitalist").

Ludendorff's Mistake.

The coalition provisional government in Russia declared in 1917 it was united in rejection of "all thought of a separate peace," but welcomed re-establishment of a general peace which would not tend either to domination over other nations or to the seizure of their national possessions—a peace without annexation or indemnities.

Count Ottokar Czernin, foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, was first of Teutonic statesmen to realize the change the Russian revolution had brought in the European nation and sought to capitalize it and sue for peace. Austria-Hungary's soil was now rid of the Russian invader, and czardom was at end; Italy had done no great damage, though Trieste was in danger; Serbia existed only in exile, Rumania was ruined. The Hapsburg empire had nothing more to gain and everything to lose. Hence Czernin's willingness to talk peace to Russia, and his suggestion that Germany should cede Alsace-Lorraine to France while Austria handed over Galicia to Poland; hence, too, the meeting of the Austrian reichsrat on May 30 for the first time since the war began, and Czernin's attempts to get support for peace moves in the German reichstag.

Ludendorff had the power to crush these proposals, at a time when they might have been acceptable to the weary Allied Powers as a basis for terminating the conflict. He was determined then on a military decision. Years later Ludendorf was to write in his memoirs: "Looking back, I can see that our decline obviously began with the outbreak of the revolution in Russia."

With Ludendorff thus blocking one avenue to peace, King Charles, with Czernin's advice, opened peace negotiations with England and France through his brother-in-law, Prince Sixtus of Parma.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My dear Louise:

Don't blame Mary for telling. If you try to build a fire in secret, your best friend may innocently call attention to the smoke.

Last year an attractive young baroness who had a job in the German war office made a little money on the side by selling information to a Polish spy. She told nobody, of course, and, therefore, felt safe.

But her mother noticed she was spending more money than usual and asked for an explanation. She said she earned it by working overtime. The mother promptly visited the war office to complain about the injustice of making her daughter work so hard, and a suspicious official began an investigation.

The daughter was beheaded for treason.

An American financier once said: "I can take care of my enemies; Heaven protect me from my fool friends."

Last year an afternoon party of young bridge players was interrupted by a violent electrical storm. When the power went off, everybody quit trying to play and began a general conversation.

A college girl named Clara, somewhat older than the others, said the storm reminded her of another like it the previous summer when she was caught out in her car. She had driven onto a covered bridge and stopped in its shelter.

"Another car was there," she said, "and I recognized a girl I knew. She was eloping with a married man. I made her get in my car and took her home, but if I hadn't come along just when I did, there would have been the worst scandal in this town's history."

She had scarcely finished speaking when a late guest arrived out of the storm. Standing in the hall door to shed her dripping raincoat, she cried gaily: "Clara, this is like that storm last summer when you found me under a covered bridge."

Well, the moral is that you can't hide anything. Those who love you will subtract something and those who don't love you will add two and two and get a thousand.

Whatever you are going to do, do it in the open. You might as well, for anything you try to hide will be discovered—and people will think the worst because you tried to hide it.

Love, DAD.

This Morning

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Great fleas have little fleas on their backs to bite 'em,
And little fleas have lesser fleas,
and so ad infinitum."

To turn from big problems to little problems and from little ones to lesser is a good way to go to sleep on sleepless nights, or to keep cool on hot days, or to hold one's general temper and perspective. Our idea of a much "lesser" problem is one which lately concerned the supreme court of Wisconsin and which has been posed for us by our friend, Owen Draper, of Tuscaloosa, who sends us a copy of the aforesaid court's obiter dicta on the matter. The problem is the propriety and good taste of the written expression "and/or."

* * * *

Here is what the Wisconsin court said about it in a decision: "And/or—that befuddling, nameless thing, that Janus-faced verbal monstrosity, neither word nor phrase, the child of a brain too lazy or dull to know what it had in mind, now commonly used by lawyers in drafting legal documents through carelessness or ignorance or as a cunning device to conceal rather than express a meaning with a view to furthering the interest of their clients."

* * * *

Well—may it please the court—we think "and/or" isn't bad at all. There are time when even a layman finds it handy, coherent, time saving. Not only do we believe in "and/or," we believe, too, in "if, as and when." We go so far as to say that if, as and when, a substitute is used for "if, as and when" and/or "and/or" the aforesaid substitute is always either repetitious or inexact. If this be treason, the supreme court of Wisconsin can go pack itself!

* * * *

This column's faith that the capitalist system can be saved if all of us big capitalists will just remember that modern economic traffic has made necessary certain traffic lights which restrict a little the "rugged individualism" and "American initiative" of our drivers is endorsed by the Anderson, S. C., Independent. But the Independent's editor adds pointedly—"so long as all the lights are not red."

* * * *

Raymond Moley is a man with a mathematically perfect sense of the middle of the road, it would seem. After fighting the court-packing plan with all his might, he comes now with this proper warning to some of his fighting companions: "Let no man suppose that progressive evolution has been choked off—that our profit and loss system is to operate without policing in the public interest, that labor is not to be encouraged to organize and bargain collectively, that the constitution will not be interpreted for some time to come in the light of modern conditions. The liberals who defeated the court-packing measure did not turn and read the ideals they cherished, or seek to destroy the leader who had done so much to further those ideals. . . ."

* * * *

Commenting on North Carolina's quarter-million-dollar advertising campaign the other day this column spoke of the importance of advertising North Carolina and the south not only to outsiders but also to their own people. The Morganton, N. C., News-Herald wonders if we knew that "in a patriotic and unselfish way publishers of newspapers in this state have offered to co-operate by giving without cost both news and advertising space to the cause."

* * * *

The Christian Science Monitor describes a bore as "one who will not come to the point," and "a greater bore" as "one who keeps on talking after he has made his point." Amen and amen! But the greatest bore of all is one who has no point and covers the default with a mountain of words.

COSTA RICAN COTTON

Editor Constitution: Before long, the cotton south will probably hear that Costa Rica has become a competitor in the production of raw cotton.

Tariff-protected industries in the United States have done their best to keep Japanese products from entering the United States. Japan says it cannot buy United States cotton unless it can be paid for in reciprocal trade.

So now 10 Japanese families are being moved to Costa Rica to make a beginning in cotton production.

President Leon Cortez Castro, of Costa Rica, says: "Ten Japanese families definitely will come to Costa Rica this year from Peru in order to start experimental cotton production on 30-acre plots."

The proposition is for the Japanese to develop large cotton plantations for the first time in Costa Rica, sending experts, seeds, and taking the entire crop in exchange for Japanese goods, according to President Castro.

SPONSORS BIBLES FOR CHARACTER BUILDING

Editor Constitution: All patriotic citizens stand firm on the principles laid down in the Bible. There is but one Bible, with some differences in man's translation of some passages.

As the Bible is the universal textbook of all churches or denominations, it is, and always will be, the greatest moral character-building book in existence. Teaching boys and girls languages and sciences minus the bedrock principles of the Bible will not make this world a safer and more comfortable place in which to live. The worst criminals of the world have had a college education.

There is no violation of the constitution in furnishing pupils with a Bible along with other textbooks. The present laws of Georgia make the reading of the Bible in our public schools compulsory, but it is unlawful for any church or denomination to teach its creed or doctrine in any public institution. This is as it should be. Furnishing a Bible to pupils is not teaching sectarianism. It does not aid any church or denomination.

Let the pupil have his Bible or refuse it. This is infringing on no man's rights.

A human life is worth more than a 75-cent Bible. A Bible costs the taxpayer less than it does to convict a criminal.

As to the tendency toward a union of church and state, the idea seems to be very far-fetched.

J. B. BROOKSHIRE.
Grayson, Ga., Aug. 12, 1937.

KNOWING BIBLE FELT NECESSARY

Editor Constitution: Georgia statutes now require the reading of the Bible in the public schools, and this law is pretty generally obeyed; but we have heard no cries of alarm, attacking the law on the ground that the teachers' time should not be spent for such purpose since they are paid by the taxes from all the people.

The purchase of the Bibles by the state would not violate the spirit of the "no union of church and state" clause of the constitution.

But the indiscriminate scattering of 800,000 very cheap Bibles in the schools, or to the school children, without any definite plan of instruction would violate all rules of reason and common sense, not because the Word of God should not be taught, but because it would not in that way; and little, if anything, would be accomplished by way of combating the tendency to crime, or the fostering of communism.

No one will question the statement that there is a very grave need for the systematic teaching of the scriptures, just as they are. As a people, generally speaking, we have a very inadequate knowledge of the Blessed Word. The few who go regularly to the Sunday schools are not learning the Bible. They really get one propaganda, one drive after another, and maybe lot of what someone thinks of the Word. Children as well as grown-ups could obtain immeasurably more Bible knowledge by reading the Bible or some good Bible stories book around the family fireside than perhaps in any other way; but that is not being done.

With proper regulations and inhibitions, barring sectarianisms, lessons could be given out of regular class hours, and with all books furnished by the pupils or parents this work of teaching the Bible can and ought to be done by the public schools. Maybe it would be more appropriate for the churches to carry it on, but they are not financially able.

WILL W. SAMPLER.
College Park, Ga., Aug. 13, 1937.

A PRIMER OF WISE SAYINGS

Editor Constitution: If the state of Georgia feels the urge to do something educationally to show spiritual stamina, why not an adopted primer of the wise sayings from all the Bibles of all the religions?

Georgia is made up of all kinds of races and creeds. Ask them to send their selected lists of quotations from their faiths that are suitable for a public school primer. A committee of all faiths could pass on the final list from all those sent in and these sayings could be made into a small primer to put into the school room. Since the compilation would be volunteer, the only expense would be in printing the primers. Such a book would be a veritable treasure for any library, and any faith that couldn't hold its own in a fair quotation like this deserves to fall.

We never relish nor digest what is crammed down our throats and if our democracy is real, putting religious literature in the schools would be worked out along this line.

MOTHER IS JAILED IN SON'S POISONING

Woman Admits Plan To Kill Her Boy, His Sister and Herself.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Dry-eyed and composed, Mrs. Lenore King, held for the poisoning of her 6-year-old son, told police today she planned the deaths of herself, the boy and his sister because a man had spurned her love.

Officers awaited a coroner's inquest tomorrow morning before asking for a warrant charging the 27-year-old woman with having killed her son, Jack King Jr., by giving him a hamburger sandwich on which she had spread poison.

Mrs. King, country newspaper correspondent at St. Clair Mo., said in a signed statement her plan for ending the lives of herself and her daughter, Jeannine, 5, was frustrated when the girl refused to eat a similar sandwich.

She wished to die, she told Police Lieutenant Adams, because a St. Clair youth, eight years her junior, had ceased his attentions.

AUTO HITS GIRL, 7, DRIVER FACES CHARGES

Betty Ann Mask, 7, of 829 Beecher street, was admitted to Grady hospital with a brain concussion received when she was run over by an automobile on Gordon street last night. Her condition was described as "only fair."

She was treated at a drug store earlier in the night and taken home. Later her parents brought her to the hospital.

4 MISS SERIOUS INJURY IN CABIN CRUISER BLAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Four men escaped serious injury tonight when a cabin cruiser exploded, blowing two of them into the water. The other two climbed on a pier before fire swept the craft. They had just filled the boat's gas tank for a week end fishing trip at the public pier on Thirty-fifth street in Bayside, Queens, when the explosion occurred.

AMATEURS READY TO BROADCAST SOS CALL

A volunteer corps of amateur radio operators, manning emergency networks out of Atlanta and Miami, stood ready yesterday to broadcast distress signals should a hurricane cut off communication facilities from the rest of the country.

Mobile units with gasoline-powered generators sent trial messages to Washington Red Cross headquarters, relaying the signals from Miami through army-amateur stations at Atlanta and Lake Worth, Fla., and through the Naval Reserve Network.

All units have their own source of electric power and are independent of the commercial supply which sometimes is cut off by storms.

A message from M. R. Harrison, chairman of the emergency relief organization, stated it was hoped the setup would not be needed, but if necessary it would be of tremendous help in sending relief to stricken areas.

SANFORD IN CAPITAL SEEKING PWA CASH

$891,000 Needed To Build 20 New Dormitories.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the Georgia University System, reached Washington yesterday to press his quest for $891,000 Public Works allotments for buildings.

Before leaving for Washington Chancellor Sanford said he would ask for 20 new dormitories within the system. He carried bank affidavits that earmarked revenues were sufficient to meet the state's 25 per cent participation in the grant.

The Georgian expects to confer with Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, deputy Public Works administrator, and will remain in Washington until he is certain Georgia will get her share of Public Works money for schools.

GOLF CLUB CUSTODIAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

THOMASTON, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Sheriff C. G. Meeks said tonight he was without a clue as to the slayer of J. C. Williams, 58, custodian of the Thomaston golf clubhouse here.

Meeks said Williams was found dead at the clubhouse where he lived early today. He had been shot from the front through the left shoulder, the sheriff said. The receiver on a nearby telephone was off the hook, and telephone company employes said it had been off since 7 o'clock Thursday night.

Money in Williams pocket and in the clubhouse cash drawer had not been disturbed, Sheriff Meeks said.

A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of "death caused by gunshot wound in left shoulder by unknown persons."

'Gone With Wind' Leads To Order For Marking State's Historic Sites

Locations of Important Civil War Events To Be Marked for Benefit of Tourists; Many Old Homes Are To Be Included in Program Launched by R. F. Burch Jr.

Popularity of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" attracted official attention of the state of Georgia yesterday in a program for marking historic sites.

Locations important in the War Between the States will be marked for the benefit of tourists passing through Georgia, Natural Resources Director R. F. Burch Jr., announced.

While the full program calls for designating sites important in other periods of the state's history, Burch declared interest created by Miss Mitchell's account of war-torn Georgia will make the 1860-1865 period the object of first efforts. Burch said:

"The extensive acceptance of 'Gone With the Wind' is reflected in questions tourists to Georgia now ask habitually."

Shown Visibly Here.

"While the central building of Miss Mitchell's book—Tara, home of the O'Haras—was fictitious, there are numerous important old homes still left in Georgia to provide tourists an answer to their quest for a real picture of the old south."

Battlefields, camps of both Confederate and Union soldiers, and sites of other important happenings will be designated with metal markers along principal highways of the nearest location.

Aid of WPA Asked.

Burch applied to the WPA for assistance in having the markers erected, and will ask the United Daughters of the Confederacy and Daughters of the American Revolution to aid in preparing inscriptions for the markers.

The complete program—one of several years' duration—calls for similar designation of historic sites connected with the Indian, Colonial and Revolutionary periods.

Where the actual sites are not located on main highways, the markers will give directions for reaching them.

Morgan, southern district manager for a motion picture distributing company, was educated at Georgia Tech, Kansas City School of Law and Woodrow Wilson School of Law. He was admitted to the Georgia bar in 1933.

RAIL MERGER ASKED TO AVOID U. S. TAX

Young Testifies He Wishes To Preclude Payment of Possible Levy.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Robert R. Young, New York financier favoring early merger of two top holding companies of the Van Sweringen rail empire, testified here today he sought such action to preclude payment of any merger tax congress might enact in the future.

Young testified in circuit court, opposing two suits which ask an injunction to prevent the merger of the Chesapeake Corporation and the Alleghany Corporation, the holding companies. Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis is presiding.

Under direct examintion, Young said he felt certain congress would continue to enact holding company legislation and that eventually any such merger would entail payment of federal taxes by the Chesapeake Corporation. The two corporations could be merged now without such tax payment, he added.

'Admiral' Smith Studies Yachting Gadgets by Mail

"Admiral" Andrew Smith, of Georgia, expects to take a correspondence course in yachting.

Governor Rivers, whose entry "Admiral" Smith, will sail in the Labor Day Governor's yacht race at New Orleans, called on Governor Richard Leche, of Louisiana, for a complete set of instructions "as to which gadget to twist to make the boat move."

Likewise, Governor Rivers instructed Smith to report here Monday for an executive session to pick the prettiest uniform from Smith's "full wardrobe" of naval toggery.

Admiral Smith, who boasts a swank, gold braided uniform is assured of a boat in which to wow the populace at New Orleans. His superior officers accepted the offer of Governor Leche to supply a sailboat.

At the same time, Rivers insisted that the Louisiana executive forward "a picture of the boat together with a complete chart showing the names of all gadgets with instructions as to which hickey to press to make the boat move."

PLOT WITH CIO LAID TO NLRB IN REQUEST FOR BAN ON CHARGE

Dismissal Plea Refused; Steel Hearing Is Slated for Next Monday.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—(AP)—E. T. Weir's Weirton Steel Company today challenged the right of the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a hearing on charges that the company intimidated its employes in opposing the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

The steel company asked for dismissal of the board's complaint, asserting the board acted "in concert" with the union in making its charges.

Regional Labor Board Director Douds refused the company's request and said a hearing on the complaint would be held next Monday in New Cumberland, West Virginia.

The complaint was "the result of an arrangement" between the board and the union to "assist the SWOC in its efforts to force Weirton employes against their wishes" to join the CIO affiliate, the company declared.

SILK STRIKE PARLEYS BELIEVED NEAR GOAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The five-day-old strike of silk workers in northern textile states today presented contrasting pictures of near settlement in some cases and sharp disagreement in others.

Consummation by tomorrow night of negotiations which would send some 10,000 men back to work in more than 60 plants was predicted after an all-day conference between representatives of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee and the newly formed National Association of Silk and Rayon Manufacturers.

and has made only one definite announcement—that it is in accord with the statement of Governor E. D. Rivers tax changes will be for the purpose of shifting the "tax load" rather than to increase revenue.

The group, made up of both senators and representatives, is due to report its recommendations to the special general assembly session Governor Rivers has set tentatively for "Thanksgiving to Christmas."

While definite recommendations will not be drafted until a series of public hearings is concluded, the informative source held there was little likelihood the committee would recommend a general sales tax.

Discussion of such a tax has been wide, and a recent poll of legislative members disclosed a bloc in favor of passing such a levy in a revised tax program.

A luxury levy, to include soft drinks, but not to touch any of "the necessities of life" holds some favor with some members of the committee, the source indicated.

Taxed on Values.

Public utilities, like other property owners, now are taxed by the state according to value of their property. Other states, systems of which the committee have studied, arrive at different assessing methods, some of them by the amount of income from sale of services.

Senator Guy Jackson, chairman of the committee, previously announced intention of the committee to do away entirely with the state's ad valorem levy.

If this is done, the informant said, the committee probably will recommend the gross receipts method of taxing utilities—a likely rate being one-fourth of one per cent.

Special Collection System.

In the collection field, the state now has a system in which various departments handle special taxes.

The comptroller general handles property, professional, inheritance and gasoline taxes among others. One branch of the revenue commission has the income tax, while another has the cigar, cigaret, wine and beer levies, and a third the automobile license tags.

A consolidated system, with the income tax division separated on account of the high technical qualifications necessary, would permit enforcement of all forms of taxes by a single group of inspectors highly trained in all fields, it was pointed out.

Such a system is attracting attention of the committee, the informant said, and a major part of the legislative report probably will deal with collection methods.

Split Seconds Save Four Women From Death in Crash

Four women, one carrying a five months' old baby, scampered from this car seconds before it was struck, knocked 50 feet and demolished by the Central of Georgia's crack train, "The Southland," in Hapeville last night. The above picture shows the wreckage and a portion of the large crowd that gathered. The front of the engine was badly damaged.

Constitution Staff Photos—Hiers.

Friday-the-Thirteenth was a lucky day for these four women and the baby. A broken fingernail was the only injury anyone received when the crack Florida-bound "Southland" struck their automobile which had stalled on the railroad tracks in downtown Hapeville. From left to right, Mrs. J. C. Smith, of Lee street, Egan Park; Miss Lois Smith, her daughter, whose fingernail was broken; Mrs. W. D. Crawley, of 90 Lee street, Egan Park, driver; Mrs. H. D. tempting to start the auto. She was pulled from the machine by one of the other women.

The car was demolished and the pilot of the engine had to be replaced before the train could continue its run. The train was delayed an hour and 10 minutes.

Engineer Jack Benton, crack train pilot of the road for 25 years, has never had a fatal accident while at the throttle. Last night as he stepped from his cab after halting the train, he said he thought all occupants dead.

Miss Smith described the frantic blowing of the train whistle as the most "pitiful I ever heard."

"It sounded as if the engineer was putting his whole heart in that whistle, that seemed to say, 'I hope you get out.'"

Georgia School Caravan Irons Out Difficulties With Santa Monica

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 13. (AP)—Difficulties with the school board, which sought to evict 300 Georgia students from their trailer encampment on the local high school grounds because of a misunderstanding over rent, were ironed out today.

"We're leaving Monday, but we'll be back next year," said C. Y. Rose, of the Georgia caravan. "There are no hard feelings."

The students will go to San Francisco, and Yosemite and Yellowstone national parks before returning to Georgia.

The school board issued notice of eviction Tuesday.

Action Is Resented.

Dr. Russell Sands, a school board member, said he resented the board's decision to evict the Georgians "as if they were tramps." He added:

"They are the finest kind of boys and girls. They have been coming to the school grounds for the last five years. Our merchants have been glad of their patronage. They spend about $18,000 in their stay here."

Secretary L. S. Cook, of the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, said the board's action "will hardly add to California's reputation for hospitality." The merchants' division of the chamber entered a formal protest.

Ellett Harding, school board member, said it was against the board's policy to rent the high school grounds for camping.

INCIDENT IS SECOND DISPUTE OF TOURISTS

The Santa Monica incident is the second trouble the caravans have experienced on this tour. Several weeks ago it was reported erroneously that the director, C. Y. Rose, had abandoned the party at Mexico City.

When the caravans returned to Mexico City after a side trip to the Mexican Pacific coast, the director corrected this report and only a few days ago sent a letter to parents of the children on the tour explaining the "Mexican incident."

Explanation Is Given.

A copy of the explanation follows:

"Upon our arrival from Acapulco we were very much surprised to learn that we were the center of a newspaper controversy. As soon as we learned of this, we went at once to the American embassy and the offices of the consular general to see what it was all about. It appeared that the entire affair was a misunderstanding between the heads of various departments of the Mexican government.

"When we arrived in Mexico City on Sunday, General Quevedo, head of the tourist department, was out of town on a vacation. In his absence we went to the Mexican Automobile Association, which we had joined on entering Mexico, and the president, Senor Riviera, and Mr. Allen, head of the Y. M. C. A., got in touch with the Mexican Department of Education and we were assigned to the School of the Revolution.

"It seemed that when General Quevedo returned, that our accommodations were not those which he had expected us to use, and before we knew it we were in the midst of an argument. However, before we left for Acapulco, we had a meeting in the office of Mr. James Stewart, our consular general, with the heads of various departments and, as we thought, had a complete understanding. It seems, however, that the newspapers were greatly disturbed and continued the discussion after our departure.

Two Telegrams Received.

"As soon as we returned to Mexico City, we called on Mr. Stewart and while we were in his office two telegrams came in from Washington, D. C., from the parents of two of our campers, asking about the situation of the caravan. Mr. Stewart and Mr. La Guerry, who is acting ambassador for Mr. Daniels while he is in France, wired Washington, D. C., that the reports regarding the caravan 'were entirely erroneous.'

"While we were there, Mr. J. K. Ottley Jr., of Atlanta, son of Mr. J. K. Ottley, president of First National Bank, who is on the staff of The Atlanta Constitution, came in to get the story. We were very glad that he was present and appreciate his promptness and kindness in notifying the Atlanta papers of the true state of affairs. It was through him that we learned that we had 'rated' Walter Winchell and were amazed to learn that it was reported that the caravan had been abandoned.

"While we know that no one was greatly disturbed over the rumor, we would like very much to know its origin.

"No one would ever seriously entertain the thought for a moment that anyone would abandon the 'blue fleet' under any circumstances. After talking personally with the Associated Press, International News and the New York Times, and after telegrams from the office of the consular general had gone to the various newspapers, we then had a very pleasant visit with General Quevedo, who assured us that his greatest concern was for our comfort, and begged us to remain as long as possible.

"His last remark was to urge us to bring the caravan back next summer and he would show us an excursion that we would never forget. So—you can never tell what will happen in Mexico."

PLANNING BILL VETOED; SUBSTITUTE PROMISED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt vetoed a bill for War Department planning flood control, power and conservation projects today, declaring he would present to congress next January a "comprehensive national plan" prepared by all federal agencies concerned.

The vetoed legislation, Mr. Roosevelt said, is out of line with his "thoroughly Democratic" proposal of June 3 to create seven regional planning authorities. It would make the War Department the national planning agency, he continued, and ignore initiation of projects by local and regional units.

TABLES REVERSED AS NON-SUPPORT IS LAID TO WIFE

'Boy Bridegroom' Obtains Warrant Against Mate To Aid Children.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 13. (UP)—Burton S. Tucker, 30, "boy bridegroom" of 14 years ago, today reversed the tables on his 59-year-old wife when he obtained a warrant for her arrest on a charge of non-support of their three minor children.

It was just another piece of litigation that has dogged the May-December marriage during the last two years.

Trial Scheduled.

Only last week the once-wealthy Mrs. Tucker had her youthful husband arrested on the same charge, alleging that the children were forced to pick berries and sell them to obtain food. Friends said Mrs. Tucker was visiting in New York city but probably would return Sunday night. Her husband's trial is scheduled for Monday.

In his application for a warrant today, Tucker charged that if his wife's claim were true he felt "she is wilfully neglecting them and refusing to provide them with proper support, as I feel that she is financially able to support them now as she has been from their birth."

Once Acquitted.

Several months ago Tucker was extradited to New York to face trial on a charge of deserting Mrs. Tucker and the children. After his acquittal he returned here. His wife and children only recently came to Gloucester from their New York home.

Mrs. Tucker, then Mrs. Olive Burnham Simpson, 45, wealthy real estate operator, wooed and wed young Tucker, her 16-year-old grand-nephew, shortly after she met him at near-by Essex sipping an ice cream soda in a drug store. They eloped to New Jersey and later to Maryland.

1 KILLED, 1 WOUNDED AS GUNS BARK IN 'LOOP'

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Homeward-bound "Loop" workers were imperiled tonight by a wild shooting affray in which one man was killed and a woman bystander slightly injured.

Police said William Fletcher, 30, walked into a shooting gallery, grabbed a target pistol and attempted to flee. Thomas Avgerinos, 46, owner of the gallery, picked up a rifle and gave chase. Fletcher whirled and fired two shots, one striking Mrs. Sallie Willis.

Avgerinos fired four shots, three of them striking Fletcher in the chest. He died en route to a hospital.

Methodists Flock To 99th Campmeet

North Georgia Methodists flocked to historic old Holbrook campground, in Cherokee county, last night to open their 99th annual camp meeting.

As the singing and preaching began, old timers, some of whom have attended the meetings for the past 40 to 50 years, looked around at the filled tents and predicted this would be largest attended session in the camp's history. More persons are expected this morning.

Campers this year are mapping plans for the centennial celebration next year.

In 1838 an old farmer walked into the blacksmith shop of Jesse Holbrook, in Cumming, leading a horse to be shod. He had insufficient funds to pay for the work so he gave Holbrook 40 acres of land. Holbrook in turn gave this tract to the Methodist conference to be used as a camp meeting ground. It has been so used ever since.

The campground is 38 miles north of Atlanta, between Cumming and Canton. There are 30 permanent tents on the grounds.

Safe-Crackers Here Are Not Superstitious

Friday-the-thirteenth was an unlucky day for Atlanta businessmen. Four safes throughout Atlanta were blown during the early morning hours. Police fear a new gang has moved into the city. Miss Eloise Bobo, an employe of the Milton-Bradley Company, 384 Forrest avenue, one of the firms whose safe was blown, pointed to the calendar "the 13th" as reason for the attempt.

New Gang of Safe-Crackers Here Puzzles Police After 4th Raid

'Friday the Thirteenth' Unlucky for Four Firms, But It's Unlucky for Yeggmen Too, for They Get No Cash in Latest Forays.

Presence of a new safe-cracking gang in Atlanta was hinted by police yesterday as detectives investigated four safe blowings, none of which netted the burglars cash.

Safecrackers operate in spurts in Atlanta, police records revealed. It has been more than a year since the last serious job was pulled. With the four reported yesterday and several occurring within the past few weeks, police fear the "epidemic" is back again. They are preparing to combat it.

Fail to Get Cash.

While no cash was taken in the jobs yesterday, police said the safecrackers probably might have better luck on the next try. Detectives are convinced all four safes were blown by the same gang, one whose workings are new to the city.

Failing to get cash from the safes, the thieves took an automobile, a pair of glasses, an automatic pencil, and a furnace salesman's black leather demonstration case.

Superstitious persons said the fact the gang moved into operation on Friday the 13th meant trouble.

Safe Doesn't Crack.

Entering the Milton Bradley Company, 384 Forrest avenue, N. W., the yeggs knocked the combination off the safe, inserted a charge of nitroglycerine, and waited for the safe to crack. It didn't. Twice before this safe has successfully withstood attempts of safecrackers to open it. Approximately $300 was in the safe, officials said.

The burglars got inside a fireproof vault of the Southern Bearing & Parts Company, 497 Peachtree street, but again failed to open the money safe. They battered the box but it lived up to its "burglar-proof" name.

Finding the safe door open at the Holland Furnace Company, they ransacked it but found no money.

KKK ISSUE HINTED IN BLACK CONTEST

tration supporter. Black's nomination had been referred to that committee yesterday when two objections prevented the senate from considering the appointment immediately, as it is done in similar instances ever since 1888.

Despite a challenge by Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, against the legality of the nomination, the sub-committee voted five to one to report it favorably to Ashhurst's full committee, which will meet Monday.

The possibility of an historic floor fight on the constitutionality of the appointment was suggested, however, when Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who voted for Black, reserved the right to raise the issue later.

Questions Eligibility.

Austin questioned Black's eligibility under the recent act of congress providing for retirement of supreme court justices at full pay. He said that act might make any member of congress ineligible either on the basis of creating a new office, or of increasing the emoluments of the office. The constitution bars a senator from an office he helped to create or for which he helped increase the emoluments.

President Roosevelt, aware that the legal question had been raised in congress, announced that Attorney General Cummings had informed him the nomination was perfectly legal and constitutional.

At a press conference while the judiciary subcommittee was considering the matter, the President said Cummings had given him an informal and oral opinion.

No Amendment.

Mr. Roosevelt also told reporters that there is no truth in reports that he is going to press for a constitutional amendment concerning supreme court reorganization.

Some observers expressed belief that this observation might influence some opponents of the President's beaten court reorganization bill to support Black. The President, however, did not elaborate his remark nor its purpose.

Senator McCarren, Democrat, Nevada, a member of the judiciary committee, commented to reporters afterward that the legal issues which have been raised present "a very serious question."

A similar expression came from Senator George, Democrat, Georgia.

DONALD COMER BACKS NOMINATION OF BLACK

SYLACAUGA, Ala., Aug. 13.—(AP)—As an "employer of labor," Donald Comer, one of the south's largest textile manufacturers, said tonight President Roosevelt's choice of Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, for the supreme court "is satisfactory to me."

Comer, head of a textile mill chain in the state employing 7,000 workers, was mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Black in the senate.

Whitteds First Receive Assurance Against Revenge Attempts.

BAXLEY, Ga., Aug. 13.—Miles Whitted, 40, and his son, Bill, 18, wanted on murder charges growing out of the slaying of Isham O'Quinn and his wife, Mrs. Bertha O'Quinn, last Monday, surrendered yesterday to Sheriff H. L. Padgett.

They had refused to give themselves up, Sheriff Padgett said, until they had been assured Mrs. Miles Whitted would be protected against any effort to avenge the killings, which climaxed a three-year feud. Mrs. Whitted and the five children of the family were removed from the county.

"I hear they'll get me if they can," she said before leaving. In leaving, she abandoned the growing crops on the Whitted farm, a farm they recently purchased under the government rehabilitation plan.

Sheriff Padgett said the Whitteds stated they would plead self-defense to the killings. Although the grand jury has not met, it was expected they will be tried at the October term of court.

The pair were removed from Wayne county to another jail, though county authorities said there was little threat of violence against them.

Double Tragedy Discovered by Attorney After Telephone Call.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Isaac Turner and his wife, a middle-aged retired couple, were found shot to death at their suburban home today.

Coroner George W. McCoy said Mrs. Turner, about 50, apparently killed her husband, a few years her senior, and then committed suicide.

J. A. Henry, Greenville attorney, discovered the bodies when he answered an urgent telephone call by Mrs. Turner to come to their home.

Mrs. Turner's body was sent to Rome, Ga., for burial.

RITES TO BE HELD THIS MORNING

ROME, Ga., Aug. 13.—Services will be held at a local funeral chapel at 11 o'clock Saturday morning for Mrs. Isaac Turner, former Rome woman, who, with her husband, was found shot to death in her home at Greenville, S. C., today. The Rev. H. E. Wright will officiate, and burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

The Rome undertaker reported Mrs. Turner left a note requesting that she be buried here.

Mrs. Turner, who was the former Miss Mamie May, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. May. She left no children, but is survived by several relatives in Rome.

First Kidnaping In U. S. Traced To Ghost Village

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A National Geographic Society bulletin today described Roanoke Island, N. C., where the 350th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare is now in progress, as "the setting of American history's most mysterious ghost town."

The celebration, also commemorating the 350th anniversary of the disappearance of Sir Walter Raleigh's "Lost Colony," will reach its climax next Wednesday when President Roosevelt is scheduled to participate in the event.

Virginia Dare, first child of English parentage born in the new world, was the granddaughter of Captain John White.

"The country's first kidnaping victim disappeared with the rest of the 'lost colony' which vanished from Roanoke Island while the Governor was away on business," the society's bulletin said.

The colonists had erected a village on Roanoke Island. When White returned from England, it was deserted and desolate. The only clue as to its fate was the word "Croatan," the name of a friendly tribe of Indians, carved upon a tree.

FIRST LADY BACKS LOYALIST BENEFIT; PROTESTS MOUNT

Fiesta Will Be Held by Stars of Stage and Screen on Zukor Estate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Sponsored by a group of stage, screen and literary luminaries, and with the name of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt heading the list of patronesses, a projected fiesta to aid the children of Spanish Loyalists was the focus of a storm of protest tonight from American sympathizers of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The fiesta is scheduled for tomorrow on the extensive estate of Adolph Zukor, film magnate. Salient figures of the populous art and theater colony hereabouts—Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Anderson, Rollo Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hecht, Mrs. Henry Varnum Poor—have lent their names to the affair, and the Spanish ambassador, Dr. Fernando de Los Rios, has signified his intention to attend.

Catholic Dissenter.

Chief spokesman for the dissidents thus far is Mrs. Alice V. O'Leary, wife of Arthur T. O'Leary, prominent New York lawyer and president of the Catholic Laymen's League.

On being informed that Mrs. Caroline O'Day, Democratic representative-at-large from New York and personal friend of Mrs. Roosevelt's, was among the fiesta's backers, Mrs. O'Leary wired the congresswoman her objections "as one who worked for your election and who believes General Franco's followers are fighting our fight for Christian civilization."

Threats Reported.

She gave out a reply from Mrs. O'Day, in which the congresswoman said:

"I have no intention of taking sides in the Spanish conflict, but reserve to myself the right to assist children whenever I choose to do so."

Mrs. Poor said she and other committee members had received telephone threats from Franco partisans to "break up" the event.

She said she had phoned Mrs. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., and that Mrs. Roosevelt assured her she was "100 per cent behind the fiesta and hoped to be there."

"LOST" RED FORCES SURRENDER TO REBELS

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Large detachments of a "lost battalion" of Loyalist troops trapped in the Sierra Carbonera surrendered today to Nationalists and reported their comrades were close to starvation on a meager diet of rice and lentils.

An encircling movement by Insurgents cut off hundreds of the government soldiers on the sierra. Six thousand more were similarly trapped on Sierra Jabalon and reported to be in as dire straits. Government attempts to rescue the men have been futile and seem to have been abandoned.

INSURGENTS SINK DANISH VESSEL

Singers Lift Their Voices So That All May Hear

200 Sacred Harp Singers Convene, Strains of Old-Time Hymns Resound

Fulton County Court House Echoes to Blended Voices of Famed Group; Five Southeastern States Send Representatives to Annual Convention.

Strains of "old-time" singing filled Fulton county courthouse yesterday as the blended voices of some 200 members of the Sacred Harp Singing Association took the pitch and rang out in the first fa-so-la of the 93rd annual session.

The eight-hour session was just the "warm up" for three days of singing to follow. Members were just beginning yesterday to arrive for the convention, which for the past 15 years has been held in a Fulton courtroom.

Young and old—from near and far, they came. Five southeastern states were represented—Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and North and South Carolina. There was one delegate from the western part of Texas.

Each year they gather on the second Friday in August and sing sacred hymns for three days in the "old-time" manner. They use a book of hymns—some original, some dating back for several hundred years—compiled by B. F. White in 1844.

Sing for Inspiration.

"We sing for what we can get out of it—the inspiration and religious environment," S. C. Mann, of DeKalb county, grandson of the founder, said.

Mann is a firm believer in supremacy of the human vocal cords over any other form of music making device.

"There is nothing that can so inspire or affect as the sound of perfectly blended voices singing these old hymns," he said. "When we get together we forget personalities and join in as one. None of us tries to outdo the other, but everyone does his part of the song we are singing—the egotistical element is discouraged."

"It's true, we do get tired of singing sometime," he added. "But once we get the spirit and inspiration of the hymn, there is no stopping. We are just carried along."

And every now and then while he was talking, Mann would pause to join in on his part of one of the ancient arrangements. There just seems to be an irresistible impulse to keep singing, he explained.

Four Groups of Singers.

The singers are divided into four groups in order that perfect blending of the voices will be assured. The bass section carries the heavy backing up. What is now called the soprano type of voice, was in the old days a tenor—and so sopranos sit in the "tenor" section. It's the same way with the alto section—which members of the association insist on calling by the old name, "counter." And those who have alto voices sit in the "treble" section.

Various leaders are designated by the program committee. The leader stands, gives the pitch, and the entire body sounds the first chord. Then they go through the hymn calling out the syllable notes—which gained for them the name "fa-so-la" singers. After completing the do-re-mi's they get into the lyrics, or poetry, of the hymn.

Began in Pike County.

The singers' association began in Pike county, Georgia, just 93 years ago, when B. F. White, a young editor and teacher, compiled a book of hymns written by himself and other authors. Demand for the book became so great that White began organizing singing groups and going around the state teaching them to read the music. Result is that the movement has spread throughout the nation and the association now has chapters in all sections of the United States.

Membership in the organization is passed down from generation to generation, from mother to daughter, from father to son. Sara Spence, pretty Russell High school co-ed, yesterday said that she had been singing for about seven years and that her mother and grandmother before her had been singing with the group.

Beginning at 10 o'clock each morning, members here will sing until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They will then adjourn until 7:30 o'clock at night, when they will gather for another two-hour session of singing. Basket lunches are prepared and served in the basement of the courthouse for all members.

ACTION IS DELAYED ON AUDITORIUM AID

Stage Hand or Electrician Controversy Not Settled by Committee.

Controversy over whether the city will employ a stage hand or an electrician at the city auditorium remained unsettled yesterday following another meeting of the buildings committee.

Though the committee approved proposed appropriations with which to operate the auditorium, members deferred action on deciding what salary will be paid the stage hand or electrician.

Members of the electrical union claim an electrician should be employed while the stage hand union declared the "road call" (blacklisting) will be put on the auditorium unless a member of its union is hired.

Mayor Hartsfield declared yesterday who ever is employed will be put to work under the direct control and supervision of the manager of the auditorium and that the city will employ the type of man needed.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the building committee, said yesterday extra shifts are being put on to place all seats in the auditorium by the date it is scheduled to be opened to the public. A dedication program has been planned for August 28.

Idaho's Sinking Canyon Threatens To Swallow Up Important River

BUHL, Idaho, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Buhl's "sinking canyon," steadily devouring a rich farming section, threatened tonight to swallow a life-giving irrigation stream into another of Idaho's many lost rivers.

As the canyon moved toward the bed of the important Salmon river one geologist expressed a belief that irrigation—chiefly responsible for agricultural development in this region—paradoxically may have hastened the advance of destruction.

Horton Abell, Idaho geologist who is studying the collapse of a half-dozen fertile farm acres eight miles northwest of here and the subsequent formation of a rugged, deep canyon, said the sinking process is slowly blocking the Salmon.

Great boulders have crashed into the river bed, he said, backing up the stream.

Ray J. Lyman, Boise geologist, blamed modern reclamation, which, he said, played at least a part in the erratic upheavals of the last two weeks.

"This truly weird phenomenon can be traced to a lava tube created two or three million years ago in this section of a 200,000-mile square area in Washington, Oregon and Idaho, once covered by molten lava," he explained.

"As an agency in hastening the collapse of the tube, reclamation cannot be overlooked. Irrigation, practiced extensively in this region, undeniably has softened the earth."

Old Stork Defies Jinx and Brings 4 Babes to City

Old Mr. Stork, to prove his utter disregard for Friday-the-13th superstitions, made four successful trips to Atlanta hospitals yesterday to deliver a like number of babies.

The first trip was made to deliver a six-pound two-ounce boy to Mrs. H. A. Wood, of 218 Hendrix avenue, at Grady hospital. This was child number three for Mrs. Wood.

Five minutes later the bird returned, this time the package was for Mrs. R. E. Chatham, of 488 North avenue, N. E. Baby Chatham, his mother's second, weighed eight pounds at birth.

The only girl arrival was delivered Mrs. Raymond Johnson, of 835 Marcus street, S. E. The little girl barely tipped the scales at five pounds five ounces.

At Georgia Baptist hospital Mrs. E. M. Blount, of 303 Dorsey avenue, East Point, gave birth to her first child, a boy weighing only four pounds two ounces.

SIX COUNTIES PAY MORE TO STATE THAN RECEIVED

Georgia Paid $3,849,415 by 159 Groups; $11,097,732 Is 'Kicked Back.'

Only six Georgia counties—including Fulton—paid more into the state treasury than they received in benefits during 1936, Comptroller General William B. Harrison reported yesterday.

The 159 counties remitted to the treasury $3,849,415.25 in property, poll, occupational, professional and inheritance taxes and received in return $11,097,732.17.

State contributions to counties consisted chiefly of income from the gasoline tax, one cent of which is set aside for common schools, and another cent to aid counties in road work.

A total of $4,092,513.75, however, came from the "general fund" for the aid of schools.

POOLE SUSPENDED ON DAWES CHARGE

Raines and not Byers as claimed by Dawes was driver of the truck. He said the immediate trial was given Dawes under an order by former Chief Sturdivant, who told officers to try cases as quickly as possible to avoid necessity for making bonds.

Captain S. J. Roberts said he "thought something funny" when Dawes and Poole came down after the recorder's hearing but that the former made no mention of Poole having threatened to shoot him, a charge which was made before the committee. Captain Roberts said he told Dawes to come back the next day if he still wanted to prefer charges of false arrest.

Byers said he started across the intersection of Spring and Peters street on an amber light which turned red before he cleared the intersection. He said he continued across the street, rather than stop, for he would have blocked the entrance of a fire station, he said.

Hailed by Poole.

Byers said Poole hailed him and attempted to stop him. The truck driver said he pulled out into the street to avoid striking a parked motorist who was changing a flat tire and Poole erroneously interpreted this maneuver as an attempt to run over him.

The driver admitted telling the officer he had run over the light but said Poole made out the ticket in the name of Louis Rainer, of Cummings, a passenger in the truck and gave it to J. G. Smith, another passenger.

Smith corroborated this testimony.

They said Poole grabbed Dawes and slammed him against the truck when the latter attempted to offer services as a witness to the driver.

Witness Tripped.

Attorney Paul Carpenter, of the defense, tripped the witnesses when he asked them how many times they had seen Dawes since the arrest and each gave a different answer.

Julian Wooten, of 355 Brooks avenue, N. E., who was fixing his tire when the incident occurred, testified the driver pulled out into the street in an effort to avoid hitting him and not in an effort to run over the officer.

Wooten said the officer threatened to shoot Dawes if he moved while he was writing a ticket for him.

The defense attempted to discredit this testimony, offering evidence Wooten yesterday had been arrested on a bad-check charge. H. A. Allen, for the prosecution, objected to his evidence in that it had not been proven in court and it was ruled out.

Dawes complained he was given no chance to tell his story in recorder's court before he was fined $7 for interfering with an officer.

Poole's Story Supported.

Firemen and other policemen testified Poole did not manhandle Dawes and supported Poole's testimony that Dawes refused to give him name.

J. S. Melton, former policeman discharged for possessing a stolen car, was reinstated last night in good standing after city attorneys told the committee they had no evidence on which to convict the patrolman. They ordered he be paid five months back salary and Melton agreed to apply for pension within 30 days.

Attorneys George Finch and Ben T. Huitt served notice they intended to file papers for reinstatement of former Patrolman W. T. Morris, who was given a 20-year sentence for the murder of Lieutenant J. W. Barfield in 1931. He was later pardoned by Governor Talmadge. The attorneys contend civil service regulations were violated in that their client was given no trial before his dismissal.

Jean Arthur Scores Again in Fox Film

What would you do if a $75,000 sable coat fell in your lap from the sky—or a lofty penthouse roof?

That is just what happens to Jean Arthur in "Easy Living," a Paramount picture now playing at the Fox theater with Edward Arnold and Ray Milland in the other leading roles.

Miss Arthur plays the part of a working girl, Mary Smith, who has the chance of an easy life hit her right on the head while she rides atop a Fifth Avenue bus. From then on finery is literally thrown at her from stylish shops and jewelry venders, although she tries to return the accidental gift to the Wall Street tycoon, played by Edward Arnold, who is having trouble with the stocks—and with his wife.

Not the least of this series of accidents, Miss Arthur loses her job. And because a fur coat cannot keep her from getting hungry, the millionaire's son makes an automat go screwy so she can have all she wants. Their romance soon climaxes in another penthouse where the funniest scenes are topped as Miss Arthur causes a second Wall Street boom without knowing what she is doing.—E. R.

'Knight Without Armor' Thrills at Loew's Grand

Entertainment at the Grand theater this week reaches a new high with the showing of "Knight Without Armor," adapted from James Hilton's powerful epic of the Russian Red revolution. Glamorous Marlene Dietrich and Robert Donat, in the starring roles, are perfectly cast as the two lovers who face a world filled with hate and ever-threatening death.

Screened and produced in England, "Knight Without Armor" is superbly cast, staged and directed. Scenes of a nation in turmoil—scenes which must have involved thousands of extras—are given a somber note of reality that is only rarely achieved in such a large scale undertaking.

The story opens during the last days of the czarist reign with Donat, a young newspaperman, about to be ejected from Russia. Instead he becomes a secret agent of the British government and is instructed to affiliate himself with the revolutionist movement, just beginning in Russia. Convicted of a part in a plot on an imperial officer, Donat is exiled to Siberia where he remains until the Communist revolt brings him back to Russia an unwilling Communist "commissar."

Typical of the turmoil that exists in revolt-ridden nations, no one on either side knows who is his enemy or friend. The element of impending death is worked into the picture so much that one can never foretell the outcome until "The End" is flashed upon the screen. In every respect "Knight Without Armor" is deserving of two hours of anybody's time.

Prisoner Given Freedom After Court Apology

After spending a night in Fulton tower, M. S. Johnson, of Decatur, apologized to Superior Judge James C. Davis yesterday for his outburst the day before which caused the judge to personally arrest him and send him to the tower for five days.

Johnson's grievances against Judge Davis began a week ago when he cited Johnson for contempt of a court order in connection with Johnson's divorce a year ago.

In the Fulton courthouse corrider, Johnson accosted Judge Davis Thursday afternoon with charges that the judge had not given him a fair deal.

"Your mind has been poisoned against me," he told Judge Davis and demanded another trial. Instead the judge took him downstairs to the sheriff's office and directed that he be sent to the tower for five days.

At a hearing yesterday, however, the judge reduced the sentence and freed Johnson, who apologized profusely for his statements.

"You have studied just enough law to learn how to get yourself in trouble, but you haven't learned how to get yourself out yet," Judge Davis told the former law student. "Until you do, I would advise that you get a lawyer to handle your problems instead of trying to work them out yourself."

The trouble began when Johnson refused to return his three-year-old daughter to his divorced wife, since remarried, in Miami, Fla. Under terms of the divorce the child lives with her mother but is allowed to visit her father over week ends.

FIERCE DOGS KILL CRIPPLED OWNER

Woman's Head Is Almost Entirely Eaten Off.

PARIS, (Saturday) Aug. 14.—(UP)—Her head almost entirely eaten off by two fierce German police dogs, Mrs. Henriette Bertrand, 62-year-old paralytic, was found dead on the floor of her home in suburban Tremblay-Les-Gonesse, today.

A neighbor found her and called police. Doctors held a quick autopsy and said the woman apparently fell from a chair in a faint with a nosebleed. The dogs smelled the blood and attacked her while she was still living.

The neighbor said the woman kept the dogs for protection.

LIGHTNING KILLS WOMAN.

CENTER, Ala., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Gilbert Bishop, 33-year-old mother of eight children, was struck and killed by lightning today. She had just handed her three-month-old baby to its father when she was killed.

Laugh Provokers Join In Fun Film at Rialto

When celebrated funsters like Patsy Kelly, Jack Haley, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are thrown together and mixed well in one picture, there is every reason to expect a tempting dish of laughter—and that is just what is being served this week at the Rialto theater in Hal Roach's full-length comedy presentation, "Pick a Star," which opened yesterday.

They all reach that peak in this highly successful comedy. It is frequently difficult to keep the fun going for a full-length picture, but the directors of "Pick a Star" have combined a good story with sparkling humor and excellent acting to make it one of the better comedies of the year.

The fun starts when Jack Haley leaves his small-town garage job and goes to Hollywood seeking fame for his girl friend, Rosina Lawrence, who wants to break into pictures. She follows him to the movie capital along with her sister, Patsy Kelly, and the trio encounters many difficulties before she finally gets a chance to show that she is star material.

An excellent supporting cast, including Lyda Roberti, Mischa Aver, Wesley Barry and Johnny Hyams, does its part in making "Pick a Star" the bundle of mirth that it is.

'Singing Marine' Filled With Songs and Laughs

If you are one who delights in seeing good musical comedies, then the "Singing Marine," feature at the Paramount theater this week, is the cinema for you.

Dick Powell, minus the aid of Ruby Keeler, but ably assisted in love-making by pretty Doris Weston, sings and fights from San Diego to New York and then to China. There is plenty of action in between songs and laughs.

Insuring laughs are Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins. With those two, it can't fail. Additional musical attractions are Larry Alder, harmonica star, and six new hit tunes. Lee Dixon does some fancy dancing.

The story is one of a good-looking leatherneck who can sing. The company takes him to appear on Major Roles' amateur program in New York. He makes good, but money goes to his head. When the leave expires and he returns to the company and the waitress sweetheart, they want none of him. Then follow scenes in China service as the singing marine fights to regain favor of his companions and his sweetheart.

The Majestic was reported to be going down slowly, bow first.

POISON IS HELD CAUSE IN DEATH OF ATTACKER

BEL AIR, Md., Aug. 13.—(AP)—State's Attorney McNabb said tonight he had been informed the death of Dr. Armen Greenhut, physician convicted of criminally assaulting a 13-year-old school girl patient, probably was due to poison.

Dr. Greenhut, 39-year-old Austrian-born war veteran and physician practicing at Dundalk, outside Baltimore, was found dead in his jail cell here Saturday morning, the day after he was convicted by a Harford county jury.

Athletics Beat Yankees, 4-3; Hubbell Humbles Phillies, 5-0

NEW YORK HELD TO THREE HITS BY ROSS, SMITH

Indians, Tigers and Senators Also Win Games.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The last-place Athletics accomplished yesterday what the first division of the American league has failed to do for weeks against the New York Yankees.

Throwing a couple of their pitching youngsters, Buck Ross and Ed Smith, against the league leaders' batting dynamite, the A's stopped murderers' row cold with three hits for a 4-to-3 victory.

Only once during this season have the Yanks been so humiliated and for the last three weeks none of their first-division rivals have been able to come within a mile of the performance the lowly Philadelphians turned in.

Mel Harder held the Chicago White Sox to five scattered singles as Cleveland hammered out its fourth straight triumph, a 7-to-4 victory in the series-opener. Vernon Kennedy was the pitching victim.

Home runs by Hank Greenberg and Charlie Gehringer figured heavily in Detroit's scoring as the Tigers beast St. Louis, 7 to 6, in a series-opener. Greenberg's circuit clout was his twenty-sixth of the season.

Pete Appleton held the Boston batters to six hits as Washington turned in a 3-to-0 victory over the Red Sox.

WATERFOWL PLENTIFUL

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 13.—(AP) Plenty of waterfowl for American nimrods to shoot at this fall was forecast today by observers in Canada's far-flung duck and goose incubator. Game guardians, woodsmen and other observers reported the waterfowl crop probably would be fully as big as in 1932-33.

TODAY Crackers TODAY
BIRMINGHAM
3:30 P. M. 3:30 P. M.

One sees things now and then, one is sorry to see. And yet, having seen them, they stay in the mind like a sound of trumpets.

There was last night. The Atlanta baseball club was coming into bat in the last half of the third. A messenger boy handed Larry Miller, the rookie pitcher, a telegram.

LARRY MILLER.

He opened it. It told him his father had died at the family home in Northfield, New Jersey.

Jim Galvin, the big catcher, was with him and saw the message.

"I'll go tell Eddie Moore so he can get someone else warmed up," said Jim Galvin.

"No," said the pitcher, very far from home then and very much alone, despite the players and the crowd. "No, don't say anything. I'll finish the game."

The crowd didn't know. The crowd was yelling, rooting for a run. They didn't know a boy was walking out there to pitch; to concentrate on a white rubber plate that gleamed there in the red dirt; to peer at the catcher's signals, to throw the ball and to field his position.

I have looked at prizefighters, knocked down, get up off the canvas and fight some more. I have seen football players, hurt and tired, get up and run for a touchdown. In a long span of watching people in competitive sports, one sees lots of raw courage and the thing called gameness.

But last night, when the boy crumpled the telegram and said, "No, don't say anything, I'll go on and finish the game," that, I think, was the finest courage I've ever seen. There was none to cheer it except a few in the press box and the office, who knew it. The others were just watching a ball game, unaware of the drama that was before them.

While he pitched, Earl Mann and Capus Brewer arranged for a reservation on a midnight plane that put Larry Miller home this morning.

DOC PROTHRO'S KIDS.

'Twas in April and I was a-visiting down on the Little Rock bench with Dr. J. T. Prothro, the dentist who manages the Little Rock baseball club.

Even for a dentist, the doctor was very much down in the mouth.

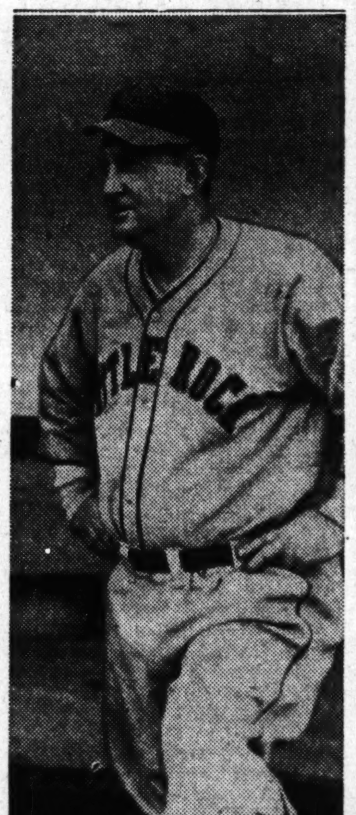

"I haven't got it," he said. "That is, I haven't got a pennant-winner. These kids are playing great ball for me. But I need some more hitting. Maybe pitching."

The Doctor was smelling of sweat and rubbing oil and woe. The Crackers had kicked him the day before. His face brightened a bit as he watched infield practice. "They'll hustle," he said. "And you never can tell what kids will do."

And you can't. The younger kids may take your books and other prized possessions and toss them into the bath and turn on the water. Or tear the leaves out of your new novel for which you paid $3 that very afternoon.

And the older kids may go ahead and win you a baseball pennant. You sure can't tell about kids. The tooth doctor was correct.

The kids who had him worried in April are out in front now and seven other managers are talking about who will be in the play-off with the Doctor.

DOC PROTHRO.

At the time of this typing the Doctor and his team have won 80 ball games. On Wednesday night and again on Thursday night they won doubleheaders from the Nashville Vols. It would not be surprising to see the Vols begin to slide now. Four defeats in two nights is a very hard blow. A ball club doesn't soak up that many without a slump.

In 1932 the Doctor won 101 games at Memphis and wound up behind the eight ball, so to speak, when Judge Landis permitted the Lookouts to play a rained-out game and win the pennant. The Doctor is aiming for 102 ball games this year. He may do it. He has speed to burn, pitching and hitting.

Then will come the play-off. And who knows? As Larry Gilbert has said, "A short series is anybody's series."

OUR BRAVE LADS.

Our own brave lads, the Crackers, are a ball club with which to contend.

They have one of the best ball clubs in the league—when they have the pitching. There is power in the batting order. And now that Dutch Leonard seems to be back in form and Bobby Durham is going strong once more, it may be that our nine will come through and stick in the first division.

If it does—and if the pitchers don't get kidney stones or sore arms or the epizootic—then this ball club may win the play-off. With Leonard and Durham right, the Crackers can take Memphis or Nashville. And perhaps Little Rock.

Pitching—with injuries and illness keeping the pitchers out of condition—has been the chief trouble with the Crackers. There was a time when they did not seem to be hustling as of yore. But they now are.

There is gold in them thar play-off hills. And gold

CITY AMATEUR ON NO. 1 COURSE AT EAST LAKE

Change Is Due to Better Condition on Famous Links.

By ROY WHITE.

Atlanta's annual amateur golf tournament will be played next week over the No. 1 East Lake course, instead of the No. 2, it was learned Friday. The change was due to recent rains which have put the No. 1 course in the best condition of the past few years, and also due to the many conveniences of the No. 1 course.

The change will be heartily welcomed by the many city players.

And for those who follow the players, it will be a pleasure to walk around the famous No. 1 course, which has been without a major tournament in several years.

Qualifying rounds for the city amateur will be played Wednesday over the 18-hole route. Match play starts Thursday and continues through Sunday when the finals in all flights will be played.

Practice rounds will be played on Monday. The players will be divided into divisions of 32 and the winning and losing 16 will form flights. Consolations will be formed from the losers in the flights of 16.

The entry fee has been set at $3 for players who are members of some club affiliated with the Atlanta Golf Association. For all others an additional $1 will be charged for an associate membership.

Entrants may choose their own partners for the qualifying round, but they should not be members of the same club.

The $3 entry fee is a bargain price for Atlanta golfers, for seldom have non-members had the chance to play on the East Lake courses.

And an entry in the city means at least four rounds of golf, including the practice round.

Dodgers Get Bandy From Smokie Club

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Secretary Edgar Allen of the Knoxville baseball club announced today that the Brooklyn Dodgers have claimed Frank Bandy, rookie catcher, for delivery next spring under working agreement between the two teams.

Bandy was placed on the suspended list a few weeks ago because of a batting slump and has been catching for the Jenkins, Ky., club.

'The Meal Ticket' Comes Through for the Giants

The Giants had lost three straight until yesterday when Carl Hubbell, back in form again, stopped the Phillies with no runs at all. Not only did he hold the Phillies runless but he allowed only six hits, walked no one and struck out nine. It was perhaps his best performance of the year. He is shown above with a close-up view of the "screwball" just as it leaves his hand He stopped a three-game losing streak.

Pelicans' Chances Ride With Weatherly's Bat

Former Star Joins Club Sunday; Gilbert Faces Battle for First Division.

By JACK TROY.

New Orleans' chances of finishing in the first division depend largely on the punch developed by Roy (Stormy) Weatherly's bat from here out. Weatherly joins the Pelicans in Chattanooga.

This is not a typical Larry Gilbert nine. Usually at this time of the year, the New Orleans club is scattering opponents pell-mell in a great closing first division drive.

But it isn't so this year because Gilbert never has been able to hold one team intact. He hasn't had the usual punch for another thing and the pitching has not quite measured up to standard.

Consider how many replacements Gilbert has made in this team over last year. He has only Pitchers Tom Drake and Bill Perrin and Shortstop Tommy Irwin back.

Just when Nig Lipscomb was beginning to hit this year, he was recalled by the Browns. Gilbert had to get Shilling to replace him.

The present outfield of Bettencourt, Galatzer and Carson doesn't stack up with last year's combination of Gleeson, Henrich and Weatherly, not to mention Rose, who became a regular when the Indians took Weatherly. It doesn't stack up either offensively or defensively with last year's trio.

Charley (Greek) George is, perhaps, as good a catcher as Hank Helf, and Hahn because of his youth is a better second-string receiver than Chick Autry.

But that's the only department that measures up. The infield, outside of Irwin, is not as strong.

The Pelicans can hardly hope to finish ahead of Atlanta or Nashville. They may summon the punch and drive to beat out Memphis. That seems the main hope for finishing among the top four.

Chattanooga Team 'Biggest Surprise.'

That surprising Chattanooga team has won 10 out of its last 11 home games under the excellent leadership of Calvin Griffith.

They used to laugh when the Lookouts went out to play, but that's all changed now. Birmingham's Barons know how it is.

A couple of nights ago the best the Barons could get out of a double-header was a loss and a tie. And Thursday afternoon, the Lookouts took both games of a second twin bill.

The only fault to find with naming Griffith manager is the fact that it occurred too late. The Lookouts can hardly better their seventh position only because they started their drive too late.

ATLANTA LINEN TO PLAY MASON

Atlanta Linen Supply, leaders in the Beck & Gregg league, will meet Mayson Methodist at Piedmont park this afternoon in the league feature. Mayson has won but two games this half but might trip the leaders. Atlanta Linen has not been defeated in four starts and has a good lead for the last half title with five more games left to be played. Brookhaven and Oakland City will meet at Camp Gordon in another good game. Each team has lost one game.

SCHEDULE.

Bricklayers vs. bye.
Mayson Methodist vs. Atlanta Linen Supply at Piedmont. Umpire Allen.

ATLANTA TEXTILE LEAGUE.

Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills has Whittier Mills, the second team in the standings column, to lick this week before they can finish the season in first place in the Atlanta Textile league. Fulton has lost one game to date, and the Whittiers have lost two.

Exposition Mills and Scottdale will also furnish plenty of excitement to the fans of Scottdale.

SCHEDULE.

Whittier Mills vs. Fulton Bag at Fulton Bag. Green, umpire.
Georgia Duck vs. Piedmont Mills at Egan Park. Van Houten, umpire.

SCOTT LEAGUE.

The critical game of the season for American Can Company will be played Saturday afternoon at Mozeley park against the Gordon Street Bereans. A defeat for the Cans would tie them with Central Cafe, Bereans and Southern Railway for first place in the Scott league with one game lost for the half.

The other two first-division teams should have little trouble with Auto Workers and National Biscuit.

SCHEDULE.

Lou Fette Pitches Bees To Victory Over Dodgers.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Giants threw in their "meal ticket," Carl Hubbell, yesterday to stop a three-game losing streak, and he produced with a six-hit shutout for a 5-to-0 victory over the Phillies.

Facing the Phils for the first time this year, "King Carl" fanned nine, did not walk a single batter and turned in his best performance of the season.

The victory was Hubbell's 16th of the season, compared with six defeats, and marked his third shutout triumph of the year.

Mixing 21 base hits with eight Cincinnati errors, the league-leading Chicago Cubs ran away from the Reds, 22 to 6, in the opener of their series before a ladies' day crowd of 25,932 spectators. The Bruin runs total was the highest mark made in the National league this season.

Lou Fette, the Boston Bees' ace rookie, bested Waite Hoyt and the Brooklyn Dodgers 5 to 2 with the aid of a collapse on the part of the Brooklyn infield in the eighth inning.

Fette fanned eight and allowed only six hits as he chalked up his 14th victory of the season against four defeats.

The Dodgers started off with two runs in the first inning, but the Bees tied it up in the third when Elbie Fletcher singled with runners on second and third.

Two unassisted double plays by first-baseman Johnny Mize helped "Lefty" Bob Weiland and the St. Louis Cardinals subdue the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 1. One of the twin-killings came with the bases loaded in the seventh inning.

CRACKERS FACE BARONS TODAY; MOON TO HURL

Larry Miller Does Fine Relief Job, Despite Death of Father.

By JACK TROY.

In dear old London, perhaps, a shilling is not worth so very much.

But if one were to take Larry Gilbert aside and ask him what he thinks a Shilling is worth, he'd probably give you an evaluation that, for the time being, is inestimable.

It was Shilling, New Orleans' second baseman, who came through last night with a million dollar hit in the first inning to win the fourth and final game of the Atlanta-New Orleans series, 6 to 3.

The bases were very thickly populated at the time. In fact, they were filled to capacity.

Al Williams, who like the prairie flower, was growing wilder by the hour, walked Dean, yielded a single to Galatzer and then walked Carson. And there was only one man out when Shilling stepped to the plate.

BLASTS FIRST PITCH.

He blasted the very first pitch into the left field stands. And, though the game was in its infancy, it really ended for the Crackers there.

OUTSTANDING
MAULDIN, MILLER

Williams stuck around long enough to get one more man out and allow Anton a cracking single, and then Larry Miller came to the rescue.

Miller was doing a great job of relief pitching. And no one of the 5,331 fans assembled there realized that, in the third inning, Miller received a wire in the dugout that his father had died in Northfield, N. J.

Grief-stricken though he was, Miller did not ask to be taken out of the game. He pitched on through the seventh, retiring for a pinch-hitter in that inning.

It was as game a performance as ever you'll see. Strangely, Miller pitched a three-hit game against Birmingham on July 31st and yet hasn't started a game for the Crackers since. I wish someone would take me aside and explain the reason why. It is all very mystifying, indeed.

CRACKERS SCORE.

The Crackers fought back and scored two in their half of the first and another in the third to slice the Pels' first-inning lead almost to the disappearing point, but New Orleans collected two more runs in the fifth to put the game beyond recall.

The Crackers missed their big chance in the fourth when Chatham walked and Mauldin sent him scampering to third with a hard single. Luby, however, grounded out, pitcher to first, to dissipate the threat.

John Humphries, the former North Carolina Tarheel who is supposed to have a sore arm, allowed Atlanta only five hits and fanned 10 men.

After the fourth, or for the last five innings, Humphries set down the Crackers in order.

CRACKERS RALLY.

With one man out, Luby walked. Mailho tripled to center. And after Rose popped to Grimes, Hooks cracked a single to center, scoring Mailho. Grimes made a great stop of Richards' grass cutter and forced Hooks at second.

The final Cracker run came in the third. Mauldin led off with a double. Luby fanned and Mailho fouled to Anton. Up came Rose, the ghost of seasons past at New Orleans, and rode a single into center scoring Mauldin. Hooks walked, but Humphries settled down and fanned Richards.

The Pels, leading by a lone run, drew away for good in the fifth with two men out. Carson doubled off the signs in right and Shilling beat out a hot smash to third. Grimes walked, loading the bases. Anton then bounced a double into the left field stands, scoring Carson and Shilling. George was purposely passed and Miller struck out Humphries. In fact, he fanned Humphries twice, giving the Pel right-hander an ample dose of his own medicine.

MAULDIN HITS TWO.

Marshall Mauldin was the lone Cracker to solve Humphries' delivery for more than one hit. He secured a double and single in four times up.

Anton led the Pels' 11-hit attack with three safeties—a double and two singles. Shilling collected a single besides his homer.

Hooks and Richards turned in fine plays afield.

Having won three out of four from the Pelicans, the Crackers today will train their guns on Birmingham. Leo Moon will pitch the opener at 3:30 o'clock.

KID CHOCOLATE WINS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Former Featherweight Champion Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, made a punching bag out of Joe Marciente, Montreal, and easily won every one of the 10 rounds in their feature bout at Fort Hamilton arena tonight. Each weighed 129.

Martin Pays Tribute To Atlanta Attendance

By RALPH McGILL.

Judge John D. Martin, sitting on a bench at the Cracker baseball park last night, handed down the following opinions:

1—The showing of Atlanta in a year following two pennant-winning baseball teams is even more of a tribute to the city's reputation as a great baseball town than the attendance in the past two winning seasons.

2—Little Rock's great showing in the race has given the game a fine impetus at the Arkansas city where no pennant has been won in more than two decades.

3—It is a great Shaughnessy play-off season with four strong teams sure to be in the play-off and the outcome in doubt.

4—While the league is not drawing as well as last year, the league is having a fine season.

The judge came into our town yesterday at noon and retired immediately to the Hughes Spalding farm. He came back talking enthusiastically of snap beans and golden bantam corn boiled on the cob.

TOURS LEAGUE.

He is completing a tour of the league, having made a visit to all members of the Southern association of which league he has been president for almost 20 years. His record as president is one of the best in all minor league baseball. He kept the league going through some trying periods.

The league, of course, is behind last year's attendance record largely because of the situation at Chattanooga where the Lookouts are not expected to draw better than 50,000, setting a new low for modern baseball years. Memphis hasn't been drawing either. The curious thing about the Memphis situation is that even when the team was out in front the fans remained away in large numbers. The team then collapsed and the fans are remaining away in even larger numbers despite the fact the team is in third place. Dog stracks across the river from Memphis are hurting attendance at the Tennessee Bluff city.

HAS NO COMMENT.

Judge Martin had no comment to make on Joe Engel's effort to buy the Chattanooga club through sale of $40,000 in stock to the fans at $5 per share. "All I know is what I read in the papers," he said.

This morning the judge will have a business session with Hughes Spalding, chairman of the Atlanta baseball board, and with Earl Mann, club president.

There was a story, which later collapsed, that Judge Martin would retire as league president. Baseball men hope not. The judge has kept the league going; has brought it through every crisis stronger than before the crisis, and is responsible for the present stability of the league.

He plans to leave Atlanta this afternoon.

PEBS 5; VOLS 8.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.—Holding Little Rock to six hits, the Nashville Vols took the last of a six-game series tonight, 8 to 5.

Paced by G. Chapman and Wee Willie Duke, who knocked out circuit clouts, the Vols came through with 11 safeties.

Iron Man Ray Starr, who started for Nashville, was retired in the fourth inning with a sore arm. He was replaced by Sharkey Eiland.

The league-leading Pebs left Nashville tonight with four wins in the current series.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Three of America's younger tennis stars and one comeback-bound veteran, Frank Shields, advanced to the semi-finals of the eastern grass courts championships at the Westchester Country Club today as Poland's Jadwiga Jedrzejowska qualified for another meeting with Alice Marble, of San Francisco, American champion, in the women's singles final.

The largest week-day gallery ever to watch the tournament turned out to see two of the youngsters, Top-seeded Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, and New York, and Bobby Riggs, young Hollywood, Cal., star who has won nearly every tournament he entered this year, win the day's outstanding matches.

Parker, second in the national ranking, was forced to three sets to eliminate young Hal Surfaee, of Kansas City, "upset" star of the season, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Riggs, in the other half of the draw, slammed out a 6-2, 6-2 victory over John Van Ryn, of Austin, Texas, a former Davis cupper who had beaten him in the 1936 nationals.

Skeet Shoot To Begin Today

Attracting shooters from five or six adjoining states, the annual Georgia state championship skeet shoot will get under way at 9 o'clock this morning at the West End Gun Club for a two-day program.

Competition in the 20-gauge, small bore and sub-junior fields will feature the opening day. Each will be a 50-bird event.

Both men and women contestants in the main events will be required to shoot 200 birds—100 today and the remaining 100 tomorrow.

Harry Harkins shot 50 straight birds to top shooters in yesterday's preliminary competition at the West End Club. William Schley Howard Sr. won the B Class event and S. W. Roper the C Class event.

Members will be assigned to teams as they appear on the grounds this morning and each shooter is requested to be ready to move off promptly when his team is called, S. W. Roper, in charge of the shoot, announced last night.

Fans Exonerated Of 'Umpire Baiting'

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 13.—(AP)—A meeting of directors of the Southeastern league here to consider charges of "umpire baiting" by Meridian fans ended with a declaration by Stuart X. Stephenson, executive secretary, that the fans' enthusiasm is "wholesome" and adequate police protection is given umpires.

An emergency meeting was called after Umpires Ross Edgemon and Jess Taylor had asked to be relieved because of "outright threats and intimidation."

Joe Louis Rests At Training Camp

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Joe Louis, training for the defense of his heavyweight title against Tommy Farr, British champion, at the Yankee stadium, August 26, had a comparatively easy time today as a prelude to a busy week end.

The champion did not put on the gloves today. He was out early this morning for his usual six miles on the road. After breakfast at 10 a. m. he took a two-mile walk. The remainder of the day he lounged around the camp, frequently listening to phonograph records of which he is very fond.

BREAK O' DAY

is a lure to ball cubs as well as bankers. And governments.

It would be a grand climax if this nine of ours were to stay in the first four and then come along to knock off Memphis and Little Rock—or whomever the play-off foes will be.

THE OLD COLLEGE TRY.

Little Rock's collection of baseball kids have a lot of that asset which baseball players facetiously term, "The old college try."

They used it in derision years ago, applying it to some youngster who would go running his legs off after some fly he couldn't get.

But there never was a winning ball club that didn't have a lot of good, honest team spirit such as a college football team develops. A winning team doesn't win mechanically. It develops a pride and a spirit.

That has been a real asset for Little Rock. A teacher of psychology would never recognize Doc Prothro as a good psychologist. But he is.

He can stand or sit there in the smelly dugout and hie his lads on as well as any football coach can hie on his students.

BATTLING BURROUGHS.

Battling Burroughs, presenting an honest and but slightly scarred visage, was a visitor in the office yesterday. The Battler was escorted by Broadway Johnny Cox, the veteran fight manager.

Once Broadway Johnny Cox brought Farmer Joe Cooper to our town in the interests of agriculture and fighting. Ted Goodrich was his foe. The fight produced a crop of greenbacks valued at $12,000. Jack Dempsey was refereeing. He got a modest $5,000 for his end.

That's how the fight game was doing in those days. Now Ben Brown, Atlanta product, is trying to bring it back. Battling Burroughs, a Mississippi boy with fighting experience in Texas and Louisiana, is his next foe. Burroughs is a good tough boy and if Brown beats him he will be one step nearer a bout with the champion.

Broadway Johnny Cox was unusually quiet. He was perhaps a bit sad thinking back on the days when there were $12,000 houses in Atlanta.

WALTERS, RICE BREAK RECORDS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Ten records, one of seven years' standing, fell today in opening day contests of the mid-Atlantic swimming tournament here.

Walters, of Athens, Ga., set records in the 50-yard and 100-yard swims in the senior men's trial events. Officials said the marks would stand although made in trials. He swam the 50-yard course in 23.8 to lower a 24.1 set in 1934.

Rice, of Athens, set a record in the 50-yard midget event, with a 26.8 compared with the previous record of 28 seconds set in 1934.

In the midget's division, Rice headed the entries with 12 points, and Palmer, J. Rood and Hatton were next with seven each.

Walters broke the record of Ish Williams, former Georgia Tech star, when he did the 100-yard swim in the trials in 55.1. Williams' mark was 55.4, established in 1935. Ashford, of Athens, finished third in one of the heats in this event.

In the 50-yard midgets' swim, Rice, of Athens, Ga., established a new record when he did the distance in 26.8 to break the old mark of 28.0 made in 1934. Rice also won the 25-yard midgets' swim.

Dottery, of Athens, Ga., finished second in the 220-yard junior men race. In the 50-yard senior women's event, Parr, of Athens, Ga., was third. In the 220-yard senior men swim, Ashford, of Athens, Ga., came in fifth.

Frisch Says Daffy Will Win for Cards

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Manager Frank Frisch, of the St. Louis Cardinals, expressed confidence today that Paul Dean, whose pitching arm failed him in the middle of the 1936 season, would come back as a winning hurler for the Gas House Gang.

"I am confident Paul is going to make it," Frisch said after Paul had worked two innings in an exhibition game with the Belleville (Ill.) Stags, a semi-pro team, last night.

BRITAIN REASSURES U. S. ON HOLY LAND

Hull Reveals Demand for Protection of American Rights.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull disclosed today that the United States had demanded assurance from Great Britain that rights of this government and its nationals in Palestine will be protected under any changes in the Palestine mandate.

Hull made public diplomatic exchanges in which the United States enunciated its "safeguard" requirements. The notes followed a British proposal to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab states.

The foreign office informed Robert W. Bingham, American ambassador to the court of St. James, that this government would be consulted and its assent sought on any changes in the mandate affecting American rights.

American rights in Palestine were established in an American-British convention of December, 1924. This compact secured to the United States all rights and benefits enjoyed by League of Nations members and their nationals.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Judd Brumley, of Greeneville, Tenn., and Jennings Gordon, of Rome, Ga., will clash tomorrow in a 36-hole match for the championship of the Biltmore Forest invitation golf tournament.

BROWN'S RIVAL DRILLS FOR BOUT

Broadway Johnny Cox, Burroughs' manager, immediately inquired of the whereabouts of Mumblin' Sam Sobel and reiterated that his charge would hit Ben Brown so hard and often Monday night Sobel probably would swallow his cigar.

"Brown hasn't run up against a boy like Burroughs," Cox declared. "And when he does, he's liable to start running the other way. I look for an easy victory Monday night."

Burroughs, a well-built, two-fisted middleweight, has had 80 fights. He has campaigned all over the southwest and in Louisiana.

OFFICIALS DENY MANCUSO TRADE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Officials of the New York Giants, surrounded by reports of pending shakeups, issued a vigorous denial today that Catcher Gus Mancuso and Outfielder Wally Berger would be traded to the Chicago Cubs for Gabby Hartnett.

Hartnett has been linked with managerial gossip, growing out of reports that Bill Terry, present leader of the Giants, would become general manager of the club in 1938 at a bigger salary.

Georgians Seek Hunting Changes

Dove hunting laws and equinoxial storms were combined today in a request filed with the state wild life director by a group of north Georgia hunters.

With their early hunting season changed from the month of September to the period September 15 to October 15, the sportsmen told Director J. D. Mitchell they had lost the best part of their season.

Weather disturbances which arrive annually about September 15, they pointed out. made hunting unsatisfactory.

Mitchell said he would ask the United States Biological Survey to change the federal hunting season back to the former dates, in which event he would change the state law.

The September 15-October 15 season was agreed upon at a meeting of southern conservation commissioners with federal officials, Natural Resources Director R. F. Burch said.

The north Georgian also may indulge in dove hunting from December 20 to January 31. In the southern section, there is only one season, November 20 to January 31.

Yates won the western several years ago and will renew some old acquaintances.

PAINTERS PLAY BUFORD TONIGHT

Buford will open its drive towards the National Semi-Pro baseball championship tonight at Wichita, Kan., with the Hollywood Painters as opponents. The North Georgia Shoemakers were runners-up last year after proving the dark horse of the tournament.

Jonas Butzman, former New Orleans ace, who robbed the Atlanta Crackers of a chance at first place in the Shaughnessy play-off last year, will most likely open up for Buford tonight. Cleo Jeter, Pat Dunaway and Gene Nix will be on deck for relief duty if necessary.

The tournament opened Thursday night and will continue through August 26, when the 1937 National Semi-Pro champion will be crowned.

It is a double elimination affair, and a team has to lose both in the winners' and losers' bracket to be completely eliminated.

Callaway Mills Leaves for Wichita.

Callaway Mills, of LaGrange, winner of the regional semi-pro tournament, will leave early this morning for Wichita and the National tourney. Callaway will journey to Opelika, Ala., to catch the train.

Callaway will play its first game Monday night against Enid, Okla.

AIR LINE DEFENDED BY CRASH WITNESS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Dairymen living near the airport today told a federal board of inquiry the Miami-bound airliner that crashed here Tuesday morning crossed the highway at the usual height.

Officials of the Florida Power & Light Company charged yesterday the plane struck the pole because it was flying too low after it left the runway at the south end of Sholtz field.

Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, general manager of Eastern Air Lines, declared there would have been no accident if the temporary line had not been erected without notification of airport and flying service employes.

I. Walter Hawkins, clerk of the Volusia county commission, and W. J. Gardiner, county attorney, both testified commission records showed the power company had been granted a permit to erect an overhead line west of the airport.

This, it was brought out, did not include the section along the highway immediately south of the airport where the ship hit a pole in a temporary distribution line.

90 Children Grab For Their Food; It's All in Diet

Twenty-five gallons of milk, eight dozen eggs a day and 20 chickens at a meal are just part of a day's diet for 90 growing children at the Methodist Children's Home, on Columbia drive in Decatur.

Mrs. Kathleen H. Green, recently installed efficiency dietitian, has difficulty in persuading the children to eat their spinach. Her efforts thus far, in the line of table etiquette, have failed to keep them from grabbing too obviously. Mrs. Green said yesterday:

"With all the outdoor exercise they take, it is little wonder they grab. Each day is filled with tennis, skating and softball, in addition to their duties at the home. But I intend to keep lecturing about their table manners. It is important that they know how to eat correctly as to have the right food."

Mrs. Green, installed as the first dietitian the home has had, received her home economics training at Cox College and G. S. C. W. She had several years of primary teaching in Fulton county and was home supervisor of the rural rehabilitation program in Clayton and Fayette counties in 1933. Mrs. Green said:

"The children returned this week from a 10 day outing at Camp Glisson, near Dahlonega." We hope to make the outing an annual affair. The trip was sponsored by the Warner Hill class of St. Mark's Methodist church. The program at camp was organized on the strict routine of a standard daily vacation Bible school with Bible training and nature study combined.

Sisters Plight Troth At Double Ceremony

Centering interest was the wedding on Thursday at 5 o'clock in the First Baptist church at Hapeville, of Miss McArva Allen and Gene Nash Hunter, and Miss Dorothy Allen and Thomas Landon Waters, which took place at a double ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. Rev. Vinson Loyd, cousin of the brides, performed the ceremony assisted by Rev. Z. E. Barron, pastor of the church.

Miss Ruth Barron and Mrs. J. Christopher Brown rendered a musical program and Elizabeth Browning sang "How Do I Love Thee," set to the music of "O Perfect Love."

The church was decorated with palms and seven-branched candelabra and clusters of lilies marked the family pews. On each side of the altar, running fountains were arranged to give an artistic garden effect.

Groomsmen were E. B. Clark, L. H. Jackson, Frank Roper, of Laurens, S. C., and Sidney Fulmer, of Spartanburg, S. C. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John G. Lewis, sister of the brides; Mrs. Sidney Fulmer, of Spartanburg, S. C., cousin of Mr. Waters; Miss Lois Hunter, sister of Mr. Hunter, and Miss Betty Hood.

The bridesmaids were gowned alike in turquoise chiffon made along princess lines with V necks and completed with short tucked jackets. They wore picture hats in matching shades trimmed with velvet ribbon. Their bouquets were of varicolored flowers with pink Rubrum lilies predominating.

The brides entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Miss Dorothy Allen entered with her elder brother, Arthur Allen, and Miss McArva Allen entered with her father. They were met at the altar by the grooms and their best men. Earl Hunter was his brother's best man, and James Dunklin, of Laurens, S. C., attended Mr. Waters as best man.

The lovely brides were gowned alike in traditional white satin made with gathered bodices, sleeves that extended in points over the wrists and were fastened with tiny satin buttons and full skirts with built-in trains. The dresses were finished with small lace collars, rows of tiny satin buttons down the backs and satin belts. The veils fashioned of double ply illusion tulle were caught with a coronet of orange blossoms. The brides carried bouquets of white Rubrum lilies, lilies of the valley and white roses tied with satin ribbon.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Allen entertained at a reception at their home, and guests were received by Mrs. Allen, Mrs. J. P. Hunter, mother of Mr. Hunter, and Mrs. J. W. Waters, of Pacolet, S. C., aunt of Mr. Waters. Mrs. Allen's gown was of blue lace, and she wore a wide brimmed blue velvet hat. Mrs. Hunter wore aquamarine lace with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Waters wore black chiffon with white flowers and she wore matching accessories.

The home was decorated with pastel-colored flowers with palms arranged at the fireplace. Assisting at the reception were Misses Lois Stillman, Celia Freeman, Barbara Chambers and Mrs. Frank Garbutt.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will reside at 1189 Valley road. Mr. and Mrs. Waters will reside in Chester, S. C.

Atlanta Federation Art Division To Sponsor Exhibit of Flower Paintings

Sponsoring an exhibit of flower paintings throughout next week, the art division of the fine arts department of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs will present an unusual collection of reproductions, the original of which date through years from Albrecht Durer in the 15th century to the present time. Mrs. George B. Hinman, widely known for her effort in furthering interest and appreciation of art, especially among clubwomen, is chairman of the art division, and Mrs. P. G. Saxton is cochairman. The exhibition will be open to the public from 10:30 to 4 o'clock.

The fine arts department, of which Miss Jessie Hopkins is chairman, will open federation activities for the new year under favorable auspices, according to Mrs. James R. Little, federation president, who expects many visitors during the showing, which, because of the floral subjects, should be of marked interest to art lovers, garden club members, flower lovers, as well as clubwomen. George Ramey, chairman of exhibits for the art division, is working in cooperation with others in arranging the collection which will be dramatically displayed and discussed.

The exhibit staged in Rich's tea room will include a number of reproductions from originals in the famous Albertina collection in Vienna, and some modern French works of Cezanne, Van Gogh, Bonnard, Rousseau, Manet and Degas. Two still-life subjects by Nigg, which are shown in the exhibit, are of special note, in that the originals were not painted in water color or in oil on canvas in the usual manner, but are examples of the rare art of painting upon porcelain plaques. With meticulous care the paintings were executed upon porcelain, then fired in a kiln, just as chinaware would be treated. This tendency toward involved composition rather than simplicity is demonstrated in the reproduction of the old print of the "Provence Rose" and the Ruysch flowerpiece from the National Gallery in Vienna. Among reproductions of American artists will be found "Tulips" by Walt Kuhn and "Pansies" by Georgia O'Keefe.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Emma Garret Morris will devote the latter part of her lecture period to a discussion of the paintings as works of art. Because of the widespread interest in flowers and flower arrangement many members of garden clubs throughout Atlanta and vicinity are expected to view these paintings, many of which were exhibited in New York last year.

Officers and members of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs as well as members of the fine arts department will be hostess to visitors, and each day representatives from clubs in the federation will be special sponsors.

Hostesses will be Mrs. George B. Hinman, chairman of the art committee; Mrs. P. G. Saxton, Miss Jessie Hopkins, Miss Lillian Williamson, chairman interior decoration; George Ramey, chairman of exhibits; officers of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. James R. Little, president; Mrs. Homer Carmichael, first vice president; Mrs. Lucius McConnell, second vice president; Mrs. E. V. Carter, third vice president; Mrs. David Marx Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Eva Corrigan, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Daniel, auditor; Mrs. Norman Sharp, parliamentarian; the following past presidents who are members of the advisory committee: Mesdames R. Murdoch Walker, John K. Ottley, Oscar Palmour, Spencer R. Atkinson, A. McD. Wilson, George Ripley, Samuel Lumpkin, also Mrs. Charles J. Haden.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Reader, is there a little grandmother in your home? If so, she gives you as much trouble as a baby and as much pleasure, too. I know of one who can't remember anybody's name for five consecutive minutes, but she can remember the most delightful fairy stories of her youth. In her day everybody was good and consequently happy. Lovers invariably won their lassies, married them and lived happily ever after; friends were loyal and children were obedient.

Her own romance was an idyl. She never exchanged a cross word with the only man she ever loved. He threw flowers over the wall of the campus where she was jailed in boarding school and played the guitar under her window when she was visiting home. After the two of them got their diplomas they were married and moved, love and all, into a cottage.

Then her children came and grew up to be healthy, handsome boys and girls who obeyed their parents, studied their lessons, did their chores. When the girls were 20 they sat in prim parlors with both feet on the floor, hands folded in their laps, entertaining their beaux with conversation that was uplifting and enlightening, innocent and amusing. Her sons didn't smoke, drink, use strong language or come in late.

Naturally grandmother has a horror of the loose ways of modern youth; the late dates, the midnight rides, the cocktail parties and the indecent discussion of unmentionable subjects between the young folks. She shakes her head ominously at the future of these children who are running on the loose. However, her own grandchildren are somewhat exceptional; for they are the progeny of her darlings who could do no wrong. She winks at their wickedness and says when other parents are turning their youngsters out she supposes hers must keep the pace. Grandmother is a good scout after all.

And she has a passion for gadding about. Every time she hears the motor turn over she's at the window to see who's at the wheel and what the chances are for a ride. If she can make the back seat of the car she doesn't care what the destination is or at what time of day or night she will get back. She may be counted old and frail but she's a fiend for going places and seeing things. Her interest in tripping and her appetite for sweets aren't diminishing.

She can't see well enough to read the news and somebody has to relay it to her. Her hearing is dull and she always misses part of what's being said. But her curiosity is keen and she calls for the question time and time again until she has heard the whole story, with names, places, dates and who said what to whom.

She can't get up or down the steps without a strong arm to lean on and when she's downstairs, her specks are upstairs and when she's up her specks are down. Every hour of the day somebody is running her errands, looking for something she's misplaced, picking up something she's dropped, handing her something she can't reach.

Undoubtedly grandmother is at times a big nuisance but she is also a benediction on a home. She has learned the lesson of patience. She is even-tempered and tolerant. She moves calmly and cooly across the scene while others are in a swivet and a sweat. When members of the family fly off the handle and a row follows, it is she who pours oil on the troubled waters. Her serenity, her childlike simplicity, her gentle ways are soothing to the younger and stronger ones on whom she is utterly dependent. She may be unsophisticated but she is wise with the wisdom of the years. She's a fine foil for youth as all who have a little grandmother in their homes well know.

Pleasant Homes

We're Satisfied.

"No I'm not interested in Russia," said Ruth belligerently, "and I wish I didn't have to make out like I were. Oh, I know you think that's terrible and maybe it is. But I'll let the ladies with servants chase around getting involved in the mass meetings, and the committees. If I bring up my family safely to be self-respecting law-abiding citizens, I'll be doing plenty. And it's taking all my energy, I can tell you.

"My job right now is to make my home appealing enough to hold the family there while I surreptitiously try to put a few good ideas into their heads . . . at least I hope they're good.

"So it just happens to be pretty important right now to me to make our living room over into the sort of a room they'll want to bring their friends home to."

We're Satisfied.

"As far as my husband and I are concerned, we like the room as it is with the furniture we bought so buoyantly when we set up housekeeping. But the children feel that it's out of date and shabby, which it is. They aren't sentimental about it as we are. So it's up to us to bring the room into line with their ideas.

"The children selected the new rug. It isn't just what I would have chosen, but I wanted them to be pleased. It's an all-over figured design on a plum ground and my oldest daughter has picked out a wallpaper that is absolutely pinkish in effect, well maybe more of a peach tone, with a light tracing of a grey for the pattern. Then we're getting plain delft blue slip covers for all the upholstered furniture . . . we'll trim it with grey moss fringe. The new curtains are plain white voile made to hang straight and the draperies are plum-colored rayon rep also finished with grey fringe.

"What I'd like to know is, is this plan positively crazy? It sounds that way to me, but then I'm behind the times and admit it. My daughters and my son all say it will be lovely, but I'd appreciate some corroboration."

We think it would be very nice indeed. The plain slip covers are a wise choice with the figured rug and the colors are very smart now. So don't you worry. The younger generation is safe as long as they're that interested in home. We'd say let them do anything in reason with the house, in fact we can imagine letting them do a lot of things not in reason as long as it keeps them in view.

A GADABOUT'S NOTEBOOK.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13.—The only screen actress Elliot Roosevelt wished to meet during his recent visit here was Virginia Bruce . . . Mae West wants Charlie Butterworth in her next film, "Sapphire Sal." . . . Humphrey Bogart will marry Mayo Methot just as soon as his divorce from Mary Phillips is absolute. . . . $642 in long distance calls has been spent by Leif Erikson, calling wife, Frances Farmer, in Maine, where she is acting with a stock company. . . . Wendy Barrie is peeved because the Countess di Frasso has borrowed Jon Hall as her escort. The Countess must have lots of something or other, because at one time she was the preferred of such film stars as Gary Cooper and Cary Grant.

Barbara Stanwyck is trying to get a vacation so she can be in England when Robert Taylor goes there to make "A Yank at Oxford." She is a little worried about the British feminine situation. She should be. From what I know of English girls (brought up to appreciate males from the cradle), they will go for Taylor in a big way.

Joan Fontaine is now aping the speech of her idol, Katharine Hepburn. As long as she sticks to Katie's lower tones, it will be all right. And by the way, I wouldn't be at all suprprised if La Hepburn had already married Howard Hughes, who is now guesting in the Connecticut summer home of her family. One thing is certain, a very secret wedding can be expected. It was years before Miss Hepburn admitted her last marriage to the Philadelphia society figure, Ludlow Smith.

There is a campaign under way to popularize Simone Simon, and you can get her autograph these days merely for the asking. . . . Was Charles Boyer embarrassed the other day on the set? After making a terrific and loud fuss because some visitors were watching him emote, he discovered they were Mrs. Paul Muni and two of her friends.

For the first time in ten years, the new Garbo contract with M.-G.-M. does not raise her salary. The reason: Her salary is as high as they can go in these parts—between $9,000 and $10,000 weekly. . . . How times change! Joseph von Sternberg's sales value in Hollywood today is the two Dietrich pictures he has contracted to deliver. At one time Marlene's only asset was the interest of Von Sternberg in her career. And at one time, way back in her screen acting life, she used to bring cakes she had made herself and coffee, to the set for her fellow workers. How times change!

That $50,000 suit that was threatened against Joan Crawford by Dorothy Rogers, R.K.O.-Radio stenographer, on the score that the star was responsible for the girl losing her job, and now is settled satisfactorily to all concerned, had Hollywood mystified. Miss Crawford was instrumental in bringing the typist to Hollywood, and has always treated her very well, inviting the girl to her home frequently. Miss Rogers reciprocated with a fervent admiration that included a $60 present for the star last Christmas. Joan's policy has always been to help the underling.

A parrot plays an important part in "Buccaneer," and friends of Cecil B. DeMille are searching for a bird that will say, "Yes, Mr. De Mille." (The producer has more "yes" men than any other in Hollywood.) They tell the story that, when De Mille worked at M.-G.-M., Irving Thalberg saw a great flame in the direction of his set. "Is there a fire?" he asked. "No," he was told. "Mr. De Mille has just asked for a match."

HEALTH TALKS

THE ESSENTIAL MINERAL ELEMENTS.

From inquiries received every day it would seem that many well-educated persons—as educations go—are unduly concerned about getting, I forget how many elements in their food, and as that is not easily done nowadays these gullible souls readily accept the suggestion that one should supplement the daily diet with a few doses of some shotgun combination of all of the essential elements.

What I don't know about diet and health will fill many good books a few years hence. What the self-constituted "food specialists" and "diet authorities" don't know but yet teach their customers will fill many pages of history too— the History of Nostrums and Quackery in Yankeeland.

Having delved earnestly if not credulously into the subject I have arrived at a practical conclusion concerning the elements essential in human nutrition, and I offer this conclusion here. Take it if you think I understand what I'm talking about, or leave it if you think you know more about it than I do.

I believe that as long as you get sufficient calcium, iodin, phosphorus and iron you are practically certain to get enough of every other element that may be necessary for maintaining optimal health or vite as we now call it.

Good Sources of Calcium.

Milk	Spinach
Cheese	Asparagus
Cabbage	Cauliflower
Beans	Carrots
Turnips	Oatmeal
Peas	Dried prunes
Nuts	Oranges
Celery	Peanuts
Lettuce

Good Sources of Phosphorus.

Beef	Apples
Milk	Bananas
Cheese	Beets
Plain wheat	Oatmeal
Eggs	Oranges
Carrots	Spinach
Dried prunes	Beans
Potatoes

Good Sources of Iron.

Egg yolk	Cabbage
Wheat bran	Lean beef
Dried beans	Walnuts
Currants	Oysters
Raisins	Rye bread
Peanuts	Apples dried
Prunes	Apricots dried
Fresh peas	Dandelion
Plain wheat	Tomato
Oatmeal	Onion
Lettuce

Plain wheat is wheat as purchased from farmer, mill, feed or seed store. I will send to any one who asks for it and incloses a three-cent stamped envelope bearing his address a monograph which tells why and how to use plain wheat in the diet.

Although the problem is still in process of solution, there is good reason to believe that in many instances where a deficiency of calcium, phosphorus or iron occurs the deficiency may be due, not so much to lack of the element in the food, but to lack of vitamin D, which is essential for normal metabolism or utilization of calcium and phosphorus, or vitamins B and G which are essential for normal assimilation of iron.

As for the iodin ration, that has been told before. If you would like the instructions for taking an iodin ration, send a three-cent, stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for it.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., (Thursday)—I went this morning to the Alumnae House at Vassar College to attend a meeting presided over by Miss Vera McCrea, president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of New York state, and Miss Kathryn Starbuck. Representatives were present from various women's organizations interested in the service of women on juries.

It was decided there should be a state committee to serve as a clearing house for all these organizations. The point was emphasized that societies of women must be enlisted which have not hitherto been interested in the passage of a jury bill, but which have a large membership in rural and urban centers. The idea was to reach as great a number of women as possible.

One woman offered an important point when she said you were supposed in court to come before a jury of your peers. In her experience, the better men of the community rarely served on juries, and she was afraid the same would be the case with women. It would be unfortunate, she asserted, if only the idle men and women qualified.

Another woman at once pointed out that this was just the reason why women should begin now to discuss the subject.

It seems important to me that men and women alike should realize that jury service is one of the responsibilities of citizenship. If you cannot serve because of illness or a business emergency, or some other valid reason, that excuses you.

But men have frequently invented excuses when, with a little effort, they might easily have performed jury service.

Women will do the same thing, unless we can convince everyone that it is not fair to any government to accept all the privileges and shirk all the chores.

Jury schools, such as are proposed, would be open to women. I hope in every community they will be attended by both sexes.

Another woman brought up the point that she was a housewife, that her husband worked hard to keep a business going, which had labored through precarious times, and that her daughter was obliged to go to business. It was the housewife's job, the woman said, not to add to the family expenses, and to see that all were well taken care of.

She asked to know, then, how she could serve on a jury.

The answer is, of course, that the family as a whole must recognize the fact that jury service is a duty and, putting their heads together, find a solution. Someone could be brought in to cook the necessary meals—$3 a day is paid for jury service. Of course, it would be nice to keep that money but if this is a duty, it is worth doing well.

Perhaps the members of the household not serving on a jury might look in the icebox for sufficient food to keep them going, even to making themselves a cup of coffee and a boiled egg, if necessary.

It seems to me it is really a question of whether you believe jury service is a job on a par with your other occupations in life. If it is, then you will surely find a way to perform it, as you do all your other serious responsibilities.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Physical fitness of the human body means more to the happiness of the individual, the home, the school, business and society in general than most of us are willing to believe. Listening to an announcement the other night between innings of a baseball game by radio, the importance of mechanical fitness of one's automobile was emphatically and convincingly emphasized, and I found myself once again wishing that we might have the same emphasis upon the physical fitness of the people who are to ride in those cars.

A day or two after that I picked up another program as I rode from one hospital to another, and the expert was making a speech to the farmers of the nation on the importance of physical well being of their livestock—a very good thing to be emphasized—but I couldn't help noticing the absence of any reference to the most important animals on the farm, namely, the human beings. We must look after the mites on our chickens, the lice on our hogs, the ticks on our cows, the blisters on our tires, the erosion on our batteries, the leaks in our roofs, nor must we forget that our first attention should be given to the "child within the midst," whose well being and happiness gives value to all "these other things."

And not only should we remember this stewardship which we dare not fulfill toward the childrn, but also that stewardship for which we must answer with reference to our own bodies. Health is one's greatest asset, and we do not lose our health in a day or a week or a month. It is the cumulative results of neglect—busy here and there with things which within themselves are good and proper, but not as important as looking after these bodies of ours and those for whom we are responsible. If we detect the slightest noise in our motor car, we wisely go to a mechanic. If we see something wrong with our live stock, we wisely go to the veterinarian. But when we feel an ache in a tooth or joint or some other part of the body, we try to forget it!

EASILY MADE SPREADS AND DRAPERIES.

You can have one just as charming by making the draperies and accessories yourself. It's easy and costs very little.

For your windows stitch up ruffled curtains of star-sprinkled ivory organdy. Fasten them with big metal stars. To have full ruffles cut them at least one and three-quarters times the length of the curtain edge.

Then make a smart wooden cornice and cover it with chintz in peacock blue, ivory and coral.

The dressing table skirt you can make in no time. Cut the chintz twice the length of the front and sides of your table, sew it to one-inch tape and tack to the table edge.

For the spreads cut side ruffles about one and a half times the length of the edge to which they're sewn. Border each spread with a band of plain ivory on each side of the chintz center panel; finish with corded seams.

Yes, you can easily make the quilted cushions, too! The diagram illustrates the smart Italian quilting. Stitch the chintz to thin muslin. Sew two rows of fine running stitches for each line of the design, forming a little casing. To make the design stand out, run heavy yarn through the casing.

Complete directions for all types of spreads, draperies and bedroom accessories are given in our 40-page booklet, HAND-MADE FOR THE BEDROOM. New, inexpensive ideas for closets, guest rooms, children's rooms, you'll find simple to work out.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, HAND-MADE FOR THE BEDROOM, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

REDUCING GETS EASIER.

Taking weight off isn't as much fun as putting it on, and I frequently get letters to the tune of: "The road to slimness is not as pleasant as you would make it appear, and it requires hard work to keep on the highway."

The fact that 25,000,000 Americans are overweight seems to be convincing proof that reducing is not easy. Slimming is hard work even on the best regulated reducing program, and the way to success is paved with diet and exercise—no intentions about it!

After years of rich food there are no more fat meats, no savory gravies, and no pie a la mode. Not if you are serious about your diet! Bread is doled out to you and you discover there is such a thing as a half-pat of butter. Well, you diet and learn. . . .

And you exercise. Muscles that have been taking life easy are put into better condition than they have been since your salad days when you thought nothing of playing tennis all days and dancing all night!

Of course it's wordk . . . But . . . reducing does get easier. Instead of brooding about the rich food you can't have, you'll enjoy your balanced low calorie menus. You will get into the habit of taking fruit as dessert and plain pie—not a la mode—as something very special and not to be indulged in unless it fits in with the rest of your menu.

What's more, you will even like your exercise. Putting your muscles to work brings a reward in exhilaration and the ability to relax more easily. Most of all, however, you will appreciate the the lithe, supple body you are making out of this program.

25,000,000 Americans can be wrong about food habits.

Perhaps you haven't reached the appreciative stage yet. In that case, here are a few suggestions which make the going easier . . .

If you still feel the pangs of hunger after you have cleaned up your reducing meal, take more salad, or some fruit. Sometimes two or three more bites are enough to fill up that empty space. If this sort of food fails to tempt you, you are not really hungry. You only think you are!

Be sure to eat slowly and chew your food well. The more slowly you eat, the more quickly you will be satisfied. This may sound far-fetched, but that is the way it works—you wear your appetite down.

Don't ever make a dietary exception for some particularly delectable but fattening dish. That is the beginning of the end of your diet.

Exercise every day. On the days you don't feel like it, exercise anyway.

There . . . I hope I've convinced you that even though the way isn't easy, it's how you come out that counts.

JUDGE BARS ISSUE OF RACE IN TRIAL

Underwood Refuses Quizzing of Kopald-Quinn Witness on Nationalities.

The question of race was ruled out of the Kopald-Quinn mail fraud case yesterday by Federal Judge Marvin E. Underwood. The judge said:

Defense Attorney A. Walton Nall had asked Samuel Genis, a defense witness, how many of the defendants indicted were not Jewish.

Genis, who is the ninth defendant acquitted by a directed verdict, replied that only M. Frank McCormick, of Minneapolis, was not of this race.

Defense lawyers insisted that racial testimony be allowed, but Judge Underwood was firm in his refusal. He added:

"We are in a court of justice to treat all individuals alike. To permit this case to degenerate into a racial contest with abusive epithets or charges on both sides would be a most unfortunate thing not only for these defendants, but for our country and its courts of justice."

Eight of the original 19 defendants yesterday remained on trial as the case entered its fourth month. Nine have been acquitted and two received mistrials.

COUNTY MUST NAME ITS NEW SENATOR

Fulton Voters To Elect To Fill Vacancy.

Fulton county—now the 52nd senatorial district—must elect a senator along with two other districts in which vacancies have developed, John W. Hammond, senate secretary, said yesterday.

Senator Everett Millican, of Atlanta, legislated out of office by the amendment shuffling the senatorial districts, plans to run for senator from Fulton.

INCREASES NOTED IN GEORGIA CROPS

General Outlook Is Better Than 11 Per Cent Gain Predicted for U. S.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Crop Reporting Service today predicted increased production this year of 10 of Georgia's 16 major crops.

Production of tobacco, pecans, peaches, pears and wheat, the service said, is expected to be below 1936. Tobacco and peaches are two of the state's principal early cash crops.

Improved Crops.

The 10 crops reported either in better condition now than at the same time last year or with indications of larger production were listed as cotton, corn, oats, hay, Irish and sweet potatoes, peanuts, cowpeas, soybeans and apples.

Commenting on the season to date, the service said:

Specific Reports.

The service, dwelling specifically on single crops, reported as follows:

CORN: On August 1 was 81 per cent of normal compared with 56 per cent one year ago, with probable production of 47,338,000 bushels. This forecast is 41 per cent above last year and 31 per cent larger than the five-year average (1928-32).

TOBACCO: Probable producton is 62,610,000 pounds, or 25 per cent below the 83,035,000 pounds produced in 1936. This heavy decrease is caused by both a 16 per cent decrease in acreage and 11 per cent reduction in yield per acre from the very good average yield of last summer.

PEANUTS: Current condition is 77 per cent of normal, compared with 72 on August 1, last year. The first production estimate will be made next month.

PECANS: The Georgia crop should reach 7,590,000 pounds compared with 9,800,000 in 1936 and 6,000,000 for the five-year average. Production of improved varieties in 1937 is about equal to the crop of 1936, and 36 per cent larger than the five-year average. The wild or seedling crop of 1937 is more than double the small crop of 1936 but is almost 10 per cent less than the five-year average production.

All of the 10 crops reported ahead of last year, in addition to the pecan crop, are considerably ahead of the five-year average between 1928 and 1932.

GALA DAY PLANNED AT MOUNTAIN FAIR

Colorful Program Slated at Blairsville Today.

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The farmers and fiddlers, agricultural specialists and preachers will be "coming 'round the mountain" tomorrow for the annual fair at the Georgia mountain experiment station.

Station officials said 3,000 are expected "from the cities as well as from the mountain coves."

Fiddlers play for square dancing and modern stepping, while leather-lungsters participate in hog-calling contests. New at this year's fair is a demonstration of pot and jug-making from native clay.

President Jack Lance, of Young Harris College, and Professor J. M. Nicholson, of Blairsville, are in charge of the day's events.

$4,000,000 ANNUALLY IS BROUGHT BY TVA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, said in a radio address tonight that the government was receiving an income of $4,000,000 annually on the sale of power by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

This, he said, was the income already realized on an investment of $118,000,000 in the Wilson, Wheeler and Norris dams, and did not include benefits to navigation and property savings resulting from flood control.

RUM, GAMBLING CASES BRING 178 INDICTMENTS

LA FAYETTE, Ala., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Indictments, charging whisky and gambling law violations, stood tonight against 78 individuals as the Chambers county grand jury ended a special session delving into "county affairs and the slot-machine racket."

The jurors returned 49 true bills today in closing their week-long investigation, ordered by Circuit Judge W. B. Bowling, who said "almost all" the indictments charged possession of gambling devices or liquor.

Monday the jurors returned 61 indictments, added 46 Wednesday and 22 yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Buying in volume returned to the stock market today with steels hitting a fast recovery pace and many issues climbing fractions to 3 or more points to new tops for the move.

Demand for aircrafts and specialties kept the list on an even keel during early profit selling flurries. Steels, a bit hesitant at the start, swung upward in the afternoon. Selected farm implements, rails, rubbers, mail orders and chemicals were quick to follow. Utilities, oils and coppers failed to do much either way.

Brokers could point to no outstanding news as the day's motivating influence. It was suggested, though, that the possibility the controversial wage-hour bill might go over until the next session of congress may have encouraged some buyers.

Transfers totaled 1,035,030 shares compared with 793,200 yesterday. It was the largest aggregate since July 20. The Associated Press average was up .5 of a point at 70.3.

Steels responded to indications operations will hold around present satisfactory levels or even go higher over the next several months. Forecasts of exceptionally good earnings for chemical companies aided this group.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Further price improvement on moderate trading activity appears in order.

BEER & CO.—It now appears that a correction of the last several weeks' advance definitely has been postponed, and will take place from higher levels some time in the future.

THOMSON & McKINNON—We see no occasion to do more than repeat our previous expressions of friendliness toward well regarded stocks accumulated on the prospects of an active business expansion this autumn.

FENNER & BEANE—It would not be unexpected if there were some profit-taking Saturday but with heretofore restrictive factors being steadily overcome, a further broadening of the market advance is anticipated for the immediate future.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Under representative leadership industrial stocks definitely have broken through an indicated resistance level and appear headed for higher prices.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—News reports incline us to expect that the 1935 cotton program will be rather closely copied, but would expect no more than trading markets until the effect of the crop movement can be more accurately judged.

BEER & CO.—With better prospects of a government loan, some reports of deterioration and better tone abroad, we believe cotton can safely be bought on any moderate decline from present levels.

THOMSON & McKINNON—We would be inclined to lighten holdings on any good rallies.

FENNER & BEANE—The weekly figures were disappointing but hot dry weather continues in the west except for a few scattered showers. The marketing program outlined by the senate committee appears likely to help the market.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Course of prices depends largely on terms of loan which have not been announced.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Public sentiment broadly speaking still bearish as ever.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We would expect a trading market for the immediate present with preference for the long side in anticipation of improved export demand.

BEER & CO.—Must have much better export outlet in our opinion to maintain prices.

THOMSON & McKINNON—We continue to favor purchases on dips.

FENNER & BEANE—Pending more active and sustained export buying we look for a trading market.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—With most of the large winter wheat hedging completed, we believe movement of domestic and Canadian spring wheat crops should have little effect marketwise.

COTTONSEED OIL OPINIONS.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—The cottonseed oil futures market on the New York Produce Exchange opened slightly higher this morning. After opening there was some short covering by commission houses in a small market.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Raw sugar was a little more active today with sales confirmed of 30,600 bags of Philippines due next week at 3.55 and 54,000 bags due in September at 3.53. This was a little below the last price of near-by sugars, but it was the first time this week that refiners showed interest at this level.

Futures were irregular, with the No. 3 contract after a little hesitation early firming up on increased trade buying against sales of actuals and covering, although the volume of business was still restricted by uncertainty over sugar legislation at Washington.

Final prices were 2 to 4 points net higher with sales of 14,600 tons. In the No. 4 contract further September liquidation and hedge selling made for a little easier tone with the market closing ½ to 1 point net lower on active positions. Sales 23,450 tons. September sold off from 1.18 to 1.17½ and May from 1.30½ to 1.30 with final prices at the lowest.

Range follows: (No. 3)

	High	Low	Last
September	2.55	2.50	2.54b
November			2.50n
January	2.41	2.38	2.41b
March	2.42	2.38	2.42b
May	2.44	2.42	2.44b

b—Bid; n—Nominal.

Refined was unchanged at 4.70 for fine granulated with a moderate withdrawal demand reported, while resale sugars are available at around 4.60 for refiners brands.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Coffee was lower today under selling by Brazil and Europe. Trade interests bought. Santos opened 3 to 7 lower and closed 7 to 11 lower. Sales 15,750. No. 7 opened 3 to 8 lower and closed 4 to 9 lower. Sales 5,250.

Closing quotations: Santos, September 10.48; December 10.10; March 9.90; May 9.81; July 9.75. No. 7, September 6.88; December 6.80; March 6.67; May 6.64; July 6.62.

Spot coffee dull, unchanged. Santos 4s, 11⅛; Rio 7s, 9¼ cents. Cost and freight offers included Santos 4s at 11.15 to 11.40.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 10.56 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 days was 11.43 cents a pound.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Prospects of a loan which would in effect amount to 12 cents a pound brought out a heavy demand for cotton in late trading today and the market closed steady at net advances of 27 to 32 points.

A Washington dispatch said a group of senators on leaving the White House described President Roosevelt as agreeing to a loan on the current crop provided congress passed a joint resolution to take up crop control legislation early in 1938 and farmers agree to comply with the program.

Shorts covered frantically in final trading and prices rose rapidly. Selling pressure was entirely lacking and last prices were at or near the best.

October closed at 10.47-10.48, December at 10.58-10.52, January at 10.55, March at 10.64, May at 10.66 and July at 10.68. Spots gained 28 points on sales of 1,894 bales with middling at 10.63.

Port receipts 24,603; for week 94,703; for season 151,308. Exports 3,464; for week 57,658; for season 87,013. Port stocks 1,159,960. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 14,378; last year 26,258. Spot sales at southern markets 17,845; last year 5,945.

NEW YORK COTTON GAINS 25-30 POINTS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Reports from Washington indicating more definite progress toward extending a loan to farmers caused active covering in the cotton market today and prices had the first real rally since the government report figures were published. December advanced to 10.48 and closed at 10.43 with final prices 25 to 30 points net higher.

Position of Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The position of the treasury August 11: Receipts $118,-362,586.26; expenditures $73,297,862.93; balance $2,880,949,814.14; customs receipts for the month $14,120,565.26.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $647,775,650.33; expenditures $920,726,-404.44, including $263,591,451.79 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures $272,950,754.11; gross debt $36,879,-488,515.39, an increase of $52,835,271.58 over the previous day; gold assets $12,-496,516,270.83, including $1,265,090,635.06 of inactive gold.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Secondary and defaulted railroad liens found cautious support in the bond market today, but the balance of the list moved narrowly, with a good many minus signs appearing.

U. S. government issues sold off from 2-32 to 8-32s of a point and Japanese dollar loans, under the impact of fighting news from Shanghai, dropped 2 points or more. Brazilian, Canadian and Colombian issues turned higher.

Turnover was accelerated in contrast with the last few sessions. Transfers totaled $7,758,600 face value against $6,610,300 yesterday. The Associated Press average for 20 carriers yielded .1 of a point at 91.2 while 10 industrials were unchanged at 103.2 and 10 utilities picked up .1 of a point at 72.9.

A reported slightly more than seasonal decline in railroad freight carloadings had the effect of erasing gains of some carrier issues, but others held advances. St. Paul 5s at 25 5-8 were up 1 3-4 points and Rock Island general 4s picked up 1 at 34. Other gainers were Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s at 66, Northwestern 4 3-4s at 15 3-4, and Great Northern 4s at 130.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Worse threshing returns in Canada than were expected did much today to run Chicago wheat prices up an extreme of 2 3-8 cents a bushel.

Lively profit-taking sales at the last, however, virtually wiped out wheat market gains here. On the other hand, aggressive demand from export and milling interests was a feature of wheat trade at Winnipeg, where quotations bounded up 2 1-2 cents over the previous close.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were exactly unchanged to 3-8 of a cent higher compared with yesterday's finish. September $1.12 5-8@1.12 3-4; December $1.13 1-2@1.13 5-8; May $1.15@1.15 1-8. Corn 1-4@7-8 up. September 97 1-2@97 5-8; December 66@66 1-4; May 67 1-2. Oats unchanged to 1-4 advanced. December 29 1-2@29 5-8 and rye showing 1-8@1 1-8 bulge, December 80 1-4. Provisions results varied from 5 cents setback to an equal gain.

Corn traders showed much less anxiety today than yesterday about prospects of much new crop Texas corn reaching Chicago for delivery on September contracts.

'STOMP' KILLER DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Slayer of Stepdaughter Is Executed With Mumbled Prayer on Lips.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Burley Lawrence Ward, accused of "stomping" his 14-year-old stepdaughter to death over a date, was executed today, muttering, "May the Lord have mercy on my soul."

The state charged the itinerant stove repairman jumped on the child with his feet at a woodland camp in Montgomery county after he had first chained her mother to a tree and beaten her. Ward insisted the girl, Maude Salters, was injured by an automobile.

Shelly Salters was the chief prosecution witness. The girl's brother testified he saw Ward "stomp" the girl until she admitted keeping a date with a man. She died the next day in a Brunswick hospital.

Refusing food since his arrival at the state prison Wednesday, Ward had to be assisted to the death chamber by two guards.

Visibly shaken, he stepped to the chair. His only statement was his mumbled prayer as the switch was pulled. Two shocks of electricity were applied. He was pronounced dead at 10:19 a. m., (Atlanta time).

GIRL, 4, GARROTED; SEX CRIME FEARED

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Strangled and apparently ravished, the nude body of four-year-old Joan Kuleba was found in a lonely marshland bungalow on Staten Island today.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine rushed special squads of detectives to Staten Island as medical examiners prepared to ascertain whether Joan was another victim of a degenerate

She disappeared yesterday while playing on the beach near the home of her aunt, Mrs. Grace Lesandi, who lives about a mile from the bungalow, at South Beach.

Her true fate became known when two fishermen happened past the bungalow. Glancing through the open cellarway, they saw her body.

First Food Given To Post-Mortem Baby at Hospital

Atlanta's post-mortem baby, Florrie Parker, took food for the first time yesterday and is well on the way to a normal and healthy life, according to the pediatrician who is attending the infant.

Born following her mother's death 13 days ago, the baby came into the world with a disease called tetany of the new-born, due to a calcium deficiency, and has suffered approximately 300 convulsions during the crisis of her illness.

Unable to take food as she should, baby Florrie was given frequent glucose and saline injections and now that she is able to take food in a bottle the injections have been reduced to two a day. The bottle has followed food taken first from a medicine dropper and next from a Breck feeder, which has a bulb to force the milk flow.

The baby now weighs seven pounds and three ounces, five ounces less than her weight at birth on August 1. She is normal in size and well developed and is well on the way to health, taking her bottle seven times a day.

FARNSWORTH CASE UP TO UNDERWOOD

Navy Spy Plea Among 17 Set for U. S. Hearing.

A writ of habeas corpus for John S. Farnsworth, who was sentenced last February to a term of from four to 12 years in the federal penitentiary for violation of the espionage act, will be among the 17 habeas corpus cases coming before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood beginning today.

The Farnsworth case will not be heard today but will come up within the next week, H. H. Tysinger, assistant district attorney, said yesterday.

Arrest of Farnsworth, a former lieutenant commander in the navy, on July 13, 1936, caused an international sensation. He was accused of delivering a highly confidential naval pamphlet to the Japanese embassy. He was indicted on August 2, 1936, tried and convicted and removed from Washington to Atlanta to serve his sentence.

The former naval officer has entered every plea, motion and demurrer known to law, Tysinger said.

CONFEDERATE VETS GET FEDERAL AID

Government Against Which They Fought To Help Support Survivors.

The government from which they once fought to secede will help support the few Confederate survivors of the War Between the States.

Many Confederate veterans and widows of veterans will be transferred soon from the state's pension list to the public assistance rolls to render them eligible for federal aid, Lamar Murdaugh, state welfare director, announced yesterday.

Murdaugh said a special division is being made up within his department to administer Confederate pensions laws and co-ordinate payment of Confederate pensions with the public assistance program. He predicted the new set up will effect a saving of $300,000 a year.

"The division may reasonably expect to administer and pay pensions to 2,400 persons during the present year," Murdaugh said.

About 1,600 Confederate veterans are on the state pension rolls in addition to several hundred widows who became eligible for pensions under an amendment passed at the June 8 election.

CRASH VICTIMS SUE GLENN FOR $60,000

Reckless Driving Charged to Atlanta Banker.

Two damage suits amounting to $60,000 are on file in Fulton superior court against T. K. Glenn, Atlanta capitalist, as the result of a head-on auto collision a week ago in which two occupants of the other automobile were seriously injured.

Brought by W. A. Johnson, 34, and J. F. Stone, both of whom were still in Grady hospital when the suits were filed, the suits charge Glenn with operating his car "recklessly and negligently" on the wrong side of the street at the time of the accident. The wreck occurred just after noon last Saturday on Piedmont road near the Southern railroad underpass.

Stone, who is suing for $10,000, is suffering from concussion of the brain and other injuries, it is alleged, while Johnson, suing for $50,000, was still in Grady today with a fractured skull.

ADVENTURE IN LOVE

By KATHRN BEEMIS WILSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

As Reed Wilkins rises at a dinner at his Chicago Gold Coast home to announce the engagement of his 18-year-old motherless daughter, Velma, to Flanders Smith, he drops dead. Velma's friends and the suave 35-year-old Smith desert her when they learn the millions her father made 20 years earlier in mining speculation have vanished through misplaced confidence in Merry Dewey. Velma goes to visit her mother's schoolmate, Marie Clark, at Carryville, a small western city. Her money gone, she goes by bus. She likes red-headed Tom Orville, her seatmate, who is going to Carryville as manager of a flour mill. After an overnight stop he is not on the bus, but later in the day she sees him dining in a hotel with a man and a pretty girl. He explains later they were his new boss and his daughter. Velma is very happy when he askes her to marry him. She goes with Mrs. Clark and her daughters, Maude and Louise, to their Lake Ingus camp. Marie dies suddenly. Velma finds a telegram from Tom to her, which Louise had opened, saying he and Velma are invited for a yacht cruise. Louise wires from New York she's going with Tom. Maude discharges Velma as social secretary. Clarence Pell, a camp neighbor, sends her to Mae Forland, whose Carryville dress shop his mother is financing, as a model, he secretly to pay her salary of $75 a week. Velma likes her work. She is faint when she reads of Louise's engagement to Tom. After resting in her room she goes to a movie and Tom approaches her at the ticket window. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"Oh, don't worry, Krocker," Velma said soothingly. "Louise is only high-spirited—she'll come out all right."

Suddenly then, Velma saw the envelope on the floor at her feet. She picked it up. Her own name blazed out at her.

She exclaimed, "A telegram-addressed to me! Why! It's—been opened!"

Her trembling fingers could scarcely hold the day-old night letter. Instinctively, she knew that delay in reeciving this message would cause her many bitter hours. She read:

"The surprise is glorious stop John Lindseys of New York old friends of mine invite us to cruise on their yacht for a month stop We leave Carryville tomorrow board boat Saturday in New York stop Was not certain of invitation until John wired stop Mr. Milligen and Adele motor to New York with us stop they will be in party stop tried to phone you but no luck stop Why are you always busy when I call?

"TOM"

The world suddenly turned black for Velma. Louise must have opened and read this wire! And the phone call? It could mean but one thing. Louise Clark had been using every device that came her way to keep Velma Wilkins and Tom Orville apart. It explained a great deal. Perhaps it explained the weeks of Tom's neglect when she was laid up after her horseback riding spill; perhaps it explained his apparent coolness on many occasions prior to that untimely accident. What could she do about it?

She flew into action. She got long-distance operator and put in a call for Tom in Carryville. After maddening delay, she was informed that Mr. Orville had gone on a motor trip with Mr. Milligen. Whether any one else accompanied them, she could not ascertain.

She sank weakly into a chair by a window of her bedroom. A knock came on the door. Wearily, she brushed her hair from her troubled eyes and called, "Come!"

Greggs entered bearing a yellow envelope on a silver tray. "Beg pardon, Miss—the message just came."

"A wire! For me?" she said, snatching it eagerly. "Wait, Greggs—I may send an answer."

Velma read the signature first. Her heart sank. It was from Louise.

Gregg coughed discrettly.

She looked up at him as though he were completely strange. "No—no answer," she said dully.

"Thank you ,Miss," he said, and left the room.

It seemed ages that Velma sat there alone by the window, oblivious to all about her. If she had been struck down, she could have felt no more stunned. There was nothing to do now, it seemed, but wait for developments. Surely Tom would not actually take Louise on that cruise; surely, he would be able to discern her treachery by the time they reached New York.

Yet Velma knew how adroit Louise could be on occasion. She knew exactly how she would impress Mr. Milligen and Irene, and how she would work on Tom. What could she have told him? Did she say that Velma couldn't go or didn't care to go? Oh, what could be done about it!

She began pacing the floor. How she would love to go on that trip with Tom! Oh, why had she remained here at all after Marie's death? Why hadn't she had sense enough to get away before Louise had an opportunity to do this to her?

Maude came in and stared uncomprehendingly at the pale stricken Velma. She saw the wad of yellow paper on the floor and asked, "What's the matter? You look as if you'd had bad news."

Wordlessly, Velma pointed to Louise's telegram.

Maude snatched up the paper and read the message. Her lips curled. "So! You envy Louise, I suppose. You should realize that your social position crumbled some time ago. Velma. It's unfortunate, I'm sorry for you, but if Tom Orville prefers my sister, why—"

The outraged Velma leaped to her feet. "You're—you're despicable! Both of you; I'm—I'm learning! From now on, you can manage your own affairs. I've done what I could for poor Marie. Because you girls were her daughters, I tried to—"

Maude's smile was patronizing. "Yes, I know. Thank you so much. I'll make out your salary check. I was considering discharging you, anyway—with a satisfactory reference, of course. Mother only trumped up your position to give you a livelihood—you should realize that. It's preposterous—our having a social secretary!"

Velma's slender nostrils dilated with fury. "It certainly is!" she declared hotly. "You girls will never be able to climb high enough to require such service!"

"How — how dare you!" flared Maude, flinging herself from the room.

Velma sank back to the chair. Her vacant gaze swept out to the browning green of the lawn, past the pinkish hydrangea blooms, and gently stirring pine trees, out to the rowboats, canoeos and motorboats dotting the mirrorlike lake. She had no appreciation now of the beauty flung over this scene by the lazy September sun, pretending craftily that winter winds couldn't usurp its dominance over this ideal outing spot.

She only felt crushed and beaten. She no longer cared where she went or what became of her. Oh, if her darling Dad were here now! He would know exactly how to meet this exasperating moment. He always knew what to do about every difficulty. Probably that was why she found herself in this impossible position—he had not been near to advise her. "Dad! Dad!" she sobbed, staggering across the room to her bed.

Within the hour Velma's bitter tears were spent and she began to think more clearly. She could of course go to New York, look up the John Lindsay yacht, send Louise home, and take her rightful place beside Tom. Yet why should that be necessary? Tom should demand her personal refusal before believing anything Louise might tell him. Did it show a weakness in him—the fact that he had had faith in some silly tale invented by such a girl?

"Decidedly not!" she declared. "Look at his chin—his mouth, his eyes !All convincing proof of his strength!" Then how had Louise managed to edge into the party?

Velma could not solve this riddle. It annoyed her in a peculiar way, and would continue to do so until she could see Tom and demand an explanation. Perhaps the yacht had already sailed. But she could cable. Authorities in the port of New York would know the whereabouts of the Lindsey yacht—boats didn't leave harbors these days like phantoms. But she would not cable. It was Louise's trip now. It didn't matter.

That was mere bravado. It mattered like the very dickens. She sat at her dressing table, trying to powder a very shiny nose; hot tears mixed in the puff, making a mess of her complexion.

She sprang up impatiently, went to her bathroom and held her face under a stream of cold water. It had been impulsive of her, anyway, to fall head over heels in love with a strange man whom she met accidently on a bus trip. It had happened, no doubt, because of her loneliness. Perhaps she only imagined herself in love with him.

Then she thought of Tom's clean manly strength, the magnetism of his personality. Her only salvation now lay in being busy enough to forget him. She must find a real job, a strenuous job.

With hectic abandon, she began tossing clothes into trunks and bags. She was leaving this place immediately, although she had no definite destination in mind.

Her ragged nerves leaped to meet the ringing telephone. She stumbled over a chair, bruising her ankle in her haste to reach the receiver. Tom! Tom! It must be Tom!

"Hello, yourself! Clarence Pell—at your service," said a cheerful voice.

Her voice fell on "Oh."

"You don't sound too enthusiastic over me, my dear. I know you've come to close the camp—you won't be here long. I thought if we could have one last swim, it would be dandy."

Continued Monday.

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Last Saturday we did not have enough space to give all of the letter from Mrs. Shorty, telling about her pet deer, Juney. After finding it as a baby fawn about three weeks old, hurt in the woods, she took it to her camp and fed it. First she gave the little deer milk, then supplied it with dried apples, blueberry pie, and so on.

"During the hunting season," the letter goes on, "I tried to protect Juney by tying a sheep bell and a large bandana hankerchief around her neck. That worked very well, and she grew up to be a perfect deer.

"The wild instinct showed up after the second year, and she left me late in October. I thought she might have gone back to the wilds for good but was not sure. I walked through the woods and blew my bugle. In times past, this had always brought her to camp, but now she did not answer my call.

"I had given up hope when, in early April, a deer walked into camp. She looked at my boy, then passed him by and walked up to my cottage. My boy called to me, 'I think this is Juney' and it was! When she saw me, she acted like a long lost child. She licked my cheek, and looked into my pocket for sugar which I had been in the custom of keeping there at all times. What a memory for a wild animal.

"One day the next month, Juney acted very strangely. Thinking she might want me to follow her, I did so, and soon I saw what was the matter. She halted at a certain spot, and there I saw a baby fawn. Then Juney walked a distance of perhaps a hundred feet and showed me another fawn. They were twins!

"After that, Juney kept coming to camp, but the fawns acted like shy Indians. They would both stand behind a tall pine tree and wait for her return.

"For three years more, Juney kept coming back. Then I missed her, and to this day I do not know what happened to her.

"I know you believe in being kind to animals, Uncle Ray. My experience with Juney is one of the most interesting I have had in the north woods. Often she followed me around, as would a dog. Sometimes she walked over the ice on the lake with me. Most sincerely, MRS. SHORTY."

I feel sure we all thank Mrs. Shorty for telling us about her pet deer. Because she was kind to the helpless fawn, and treated it well afterward, she held the friendship of the grown animal, and felt closer to the wild things of nature.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 42
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The huge, angry beast charged with all the fury of its kind, and it charged in deathly silence. Tarzan did not give an inch. Instead he took a firm stance. He clutched the hardwood rod and swung it in a great circle that started low at his right side.

He timed the blow to the fraction of a second so that it met the leopard with its full momentum, backed by the strength of the ape-man's mighty thews. Full upon the beast's flat skull it fell, before the extended talons or bared fangs could claim their victim.

There was a sound of splintering wood and bone, the thud of the heavy body on the hard ground, then silence. Lord gasped, hardly able to believe what he had seen. And the eyes at Woora's window were filled with a sudden fear—with fear, and evil cunning.

Now the ape-man moved cautiously in the direction of the window that opened into the room of Woora. Quickly the watching figure receded into the darkness. And the wily brain above those sinister eyes was busy with schemes to trap this blond intruder!

Madden Praised In 'Good Words,' Prison Editorial

A moving tribute to the late John S. Madden, soldier and poet and captain of the guard at Atlanta federal penitentiary, is carried in the curernt issue of Good Words, prison publication.

Captain Madden, who died a month ago, had been a frequent contributor to The Constitution.

The Good Words editorial said in part:

"Captain Madden was a brave man both in and out of the United States army; but he was more than that for he was a kindly human being, an outstanding individual, square, stalwart, without fear and without reproach. If ever a man was entitled to be called 'sir' it was Captain Madden. He was a true knight in heart, in mind and in every action.

"In a world where many are self-seekers, here was a man who was truly at all times and in all places an officer and a gentleman. . . ."

FOREIGNERS PERIL EAST COAST OF U. S.

Army Tests Effectiveness of Defense Plans.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A coalition of mythical foreign powers, taking advantage of the concentration of the American navy in Pacific waters, tonight menaced New England's industrial centers and heavily populated area.

To meet the pending invasion, the entire American first army was ordered into action from Maine to Virginia.

That, briefly, was the outline made public by army headquarters, of a command post exercise designed to determine the effectiveness of the nation's defense measures—on paper.

WAR GAMES START

50,000 Troops Maneuver Before Il Duce and King.

CASTELVETRANO, Sicily, Aug. 13.—(AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele, Crown Prince Umberto and Premier Benito Mussolini braved a broiling sun today to witness an "enemy" landing on the shores of this Italian island, opening phase of Italy's annual war games.

Moving under a smoke screen, the "red" army landed from warships and transports in face of a stout "blue" defense and began a drive to capture the island. Some 50,000 of the country's finest troops maneuvered.

Some of Italy's best military brains, including General Alberto Pariano, undersecretary of war, observed the maneuvers.

REPORTERS ARE CHIDED BY F. D. R. JR. ON COUP

PARIS, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr. explained in the Austrian Tyrol tonight why he and his bride, the former Ethel du Pont, so persistently fled from newspapermen on their honeymoon.

"We had a good time fooling you," he told reporters after he had rejoined his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, at Eigen, near Salzburg. "Not because we want to annoy reporters, among whom we have many friends, but because of the proverb which exists in all languages and dialects: 'In order to live happily it is best to live hidden.'"

INDIAN GROUP OPPOSES GREAT SMOKY SWAP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The American Indian Federation called upon President Roosevelt today to veto a bill authorizing a land exchange with the Cherokee Indians in North Carolina to provide an entrance for the Blue Ridge parkway to the Great Smoky mountains national park. The Indian lands would be used as a right-of-way for the scenic highway.

WILSON'S SISTER-IN-LAW DIES IN TENNESSEE

She and her husband came to Nashville in 1904 from Clarksville, Tenn., where she was reared from early childhood.

8 Children Aboard Raft Saved Half Mile at Sea

CAPE ELIZABETH, Maine, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Eight children aboard a raft were rescued by coast guard late today a half mile off shore.

The children, aged 9 to 15, were carried to sea when the raft broke its anchor chain at near-by Danforth Cove. All were from Portland.

CAPONE LOSES PLEA FOR CUT IN TERM

Judge Denies Petition and Rules Fine of $20,000 Stands.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Al Capone lost in federal court today his effort to eliminate one-year and $20,000 from the 11-year sentence and $50,000 fine imposed when he was convicted of violating income tax laws.

Judge James H. Wilkerson denied the petition of Capone, now in Alcatraz penitentiary, for withdrawal of that part of the sentence requiring him to serve one year in the Cook (Chicago) county jail and pay the $20,000 fine after finishing his federal prison term.

WIFE TO FIGHT SALE OF AL CAPONE'S HOME

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Mae Capone, wife of Al Capone, planned today a fight to prevent the sale of her Miami Beach home to satisfy claims of the government.

Mrs. Capone filed a suit in equity in federal court here yesterday asking a temporary restraining order and upon final hearing a decree permanently enjoining the government from selling the $40,000 home.

SUIT FOR MILLION WAITS DECISION

Browning Daughter's Claim Attacked in Court.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Miss Marjorie Browning, 22, who is suing for a $1,000,000 share in the estate of her late foster-father, Edward W. (Daddy) Browning, eccentric multi-millionaire real estate operator, did not attend the funeral of the man who, she claims, promised to make her his heiress, it was contended today in surrogates' court.

The assertion was made by Daniel S. Shirk, attorney for Mrs. Dorothy "Sunshine" Hood, of Dunn, N. C., another adopted daughter of the wealthy real estate man, as evidence that the filial relation claimed by Miss Browning never existed.

The three-day hearing closed as Surrogate James A. Delehanty took under advisement petitions by Shirk and McKee to dismiss the suit.

Copeland Petition in G.O.P. Primary Attacked.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia rejected today suggestions that he or members of his administration participate in an investigation of the legality of nominating petitions filed for United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, his Tammany opponent for the Republican mayoralty nomination.

The mayor's action followed announcement by the law committee of the New York County Republican committee that they had found "apparent" evidences of fraud in the Copeland petitions, and had suggested that Mayor LaGuardia participate in an investigation.

"If there is evidence of fraud that is a matter for the district attorney," Mayor LaGuardia said.

COLOMBIAN STATESMAN VISITS U. S. 'AS TOURIST'

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Dr. Eduardo Santos, newspaper publisher and candidate of the powerful Liberal party for president of Colombia, arrived here by clipper plane late today for a brief visit to the United States "just as a tourist."

After an overnight stop here as guests of Amaedo Abello, Colombian consul, Dr. Santos and his wife will fly to Washington, D. C., for a brief visit, and will spend several days in New York.
